Boys' Bodies Found

Brothers Recovered
From Lake Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Missing since May 1, three Toronto boys were found drowned today on the Toronto waterfront.

A crew of waterfront workers saw the bodies of the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Quigley floating in the water at the foot of Sherbourne Street.

Police said it was a case of accidental drowning. Coroner Smiley Lawson said the children had been in the water 12 to 14 days. They left their east-central home here to buy candy at a neighborhood store on May 1.

Tell off a steel girder while trying to cross a part of the harbor and the others were drowned trying to rescue him.

The boys, Howard, 10, Henry, 7, and Paul, 5, had been the object of one of the most intensive hunts in Toronto's history.

An army of police and interested citizens had combed the downtown area and other parts of the city. Just Thursday the board of police commissioners doubled a reward from $500 to $1,000 for information leading to their discovery, dead or alive.

Dulles Seeks New Plan for Egypt Crisis

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—Well-informed Egyptian circles here said today John Foster Dulles, United States state secretary, had told the Egyptian government he was trying to produce a plan within a month to solve the Anglo-Egyptian dispute over the Suez Canal.

Dulles visited Cairo this week on his fact-finding tour of the Middle East.

He was said to have told Gen. Naguib, the Egyptian prime minister, he might be able to recommend a settlement plan acceptable to Egypt and Britain.

There was no information here to indicate what Dulles had in mind.

CAIRO (CP)—Egyptians in towns in the Suez Canal zone have been ordered not to sell food to British troops, the government said today.

It denied, however, that it was making any move to cut off normal supplies to the British garrison.

A spokesman for the revolutionary council said the garrison would continue to receive its foodstuffs under allocated quotas from authorized contractors. British forces, however, would not be allowed in future to buy in the towns foodstuffs allocated to the civilian population of the canal zone.

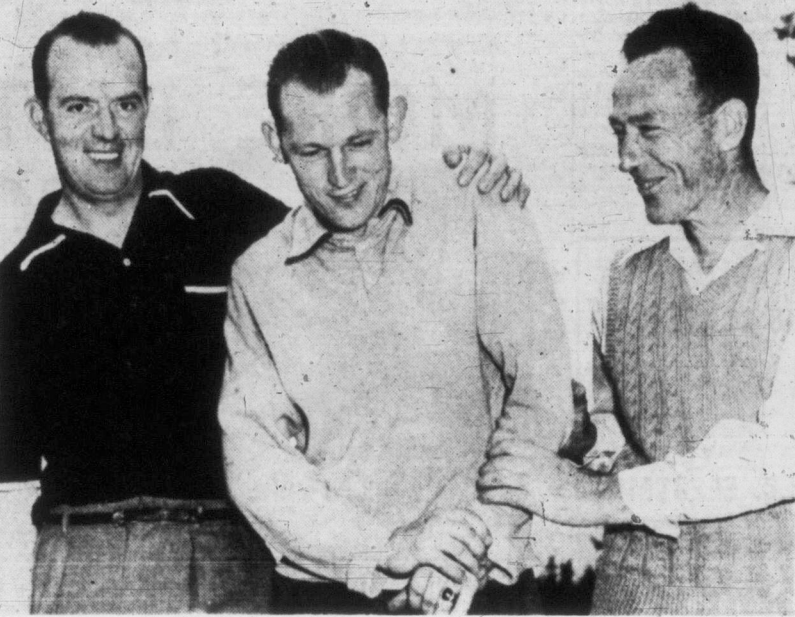

IWA Dispute To Go to 3-Man Board

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—The CIO International Woodworkers Union called in local representatives of 32,000 loggers today to plot "future action" following a second breakdown in wage negotiations with West Coast lumbermen.

The dispute now will go to a three-man conciliation board in a bid to avert British Columbia's second woodworkers' strike in as many years. Stalemate in company-union talks came two days after Government Conciliator Robert Forgie brought the parties together.

Toronto Seeks Games

TORONTO (UPI)—The city of Toronto and the Canadian National Exhibition plan to make a spirited bid for the 1960 summer Olympic Games, it was learned today following a meeting between city and CNE officials.

Golfers Set for B.C. Amateur

Victoria ganged up on Vancouver today as the B.C. Amateur golf championships opened at the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club. Hugh Morrison, left, of Gorge Vale Club, and Bob Morrison, right, of Uplands Club take Vancouver's Bob Kidd to task before the 36-hole qualifying test. Kidd, runner-up to professional Stan Leonard in the recent Vancouver match-play championship, may have the last laugh, however, as he is one of the favorites for the title. The tourney continues through to Monday. (Times Photo by Halkett.)

BIG TWO PARLEY U.S. SUGGESTION

Churchill-Eisenhower Conference Needed
To End Rift Says Senior Senate Member

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill has intimated that he will not press for any immediate top-level talk with Soviet leaders and has promised he will make no attempt to "appease" them, authoritative sources said today.

Churchill gave his assurance, informants said, in a conference with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. H. Alexander Smith appealed today for an early "Big Two" conference between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Winston Churchill to close the U.S.-British rift over Korean war policy.

The New Jersey Republican, a senior member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said the two leaders should get together either in Washington or London as soon as possible to "establish a common Anglo-American position in Asia, just as we have done in western Europe."

"He told a reporter the 'most pressing single issue' to be threshed out at a big two-meeting 'is our justified concern that Britain will back Communism.'"

Under front-page headlines reading "No Apology, Mr. McCarthy," the Mirror said, "We do not dignify this twaddle by calling it an insult. It is just damn stupid. We waste no more breath on McCarthy."

The Mirror said McCarthy would get no apology. "Britain is not apologizing to him or anybody else in America because there has been plain speaking," the Mirror said. "We think it is long, long overdue."

The Daily Herald, semi-official Labor party organ, attacked McCarthy as "the sinister senator" in a front-page editorial.

"For several years the sinister senator has campaigned against freedom of speech and ideas with mounting ferocity... but now, we should dare hope, we have had the last straw. Because Mr. Atlee dared in the British parliament to criticize a minority of American opinion—and to mention without proper reverence the sacred name of McCarthy himself—the Senator instantly denounces Atlee as a communist!"

The Conservative press declined to comment editorially, but each paper displayed it as its leading story.

PROMISED CHANGES IMPLEMENTED

BCHIS Premium Arrears Abolished

BCE BUS STRIKE OFF; COMPROMISE ON WAGES

VANCOUVER—The British Columbia Electric and nearly 3,000 transit operators in Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria settled their wage dispute today and averted a strike in the three cities.

The AFL Street Railwaymen's Union originally demanded a 23-cent hourly pay boost, but took an undisclosed cut in the final negotiations. The union had said earlier, however, that it would settle for 10 cents an hour.

The strike threat first loomed large when the union rejected a settlement based on a six-cent hourly

Martin Announces 3-Point 'Encouragement' Scheme

By GORDON FORBES

Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin today announced his promised changes in B.C.'s hospital insurance scheme with a three-fold plan to encourage the payment of premiums.

Here are the main points of the plan which goes into effect July 1:

1. The government has abolished all arrears of premium payments, including those for people on payroll deductions.
2. People on payrolls will now be able to get insurance after paying one month's premiums instead of six months as previously.
3. Each six months of premiums paid will bring an "insured benefit" for one month, up to a maximum of three months. This means that if a person, for some reason, could not continue paying premiums after he had paid for 18 months, he would still be insured for three months before being struck off the benefit list.

Those who pay directly to BCHIS have to pay at least six months' premium in advance, and those on payroll deduction have six months' advance premium taken off their pay.

The six months' premium for those who pay direct remains in force, but for employees only one month need be paid in advance, starting July.

No Refunds of Advance Premiums

There will be no refunds for employees who are already paid up six months ahead. They will be credited with this if at any future time they run into financial difficulties and cannot pay premiums.

In wiping out all existing arrears the government is completing a process which began early last year when it became apparent that people who had never paid hospital insurance kept evading the plan because they faced back payments to match those paid by people who had been in the scheme from the start.

Thus, at any time, a person can start BCHIS with a clean sheet regardless of whether he has paid before or not.

The only drawback is that if he hasn't paid premiums for the previous six months he has to wait one month before getting hospital benefits.

Where he slips up in one premium payment he'll have to wait 14 days before getting hospital benefits. But if he has a regular record of payment, he'll have built up an "insurance benefit" to cover him in accordance with the new formula.

For other people, not on payroll deduction, it becomes optional whether or not they want to pay the premiums, since they won't be charged with arrears and won't be prosecuted for not paying, although the act states that by law they are liable.

Decontrol of Milk Prices in Force Within 3 Weeks

VANCOUVER (CP)—Decontrol of milk prices above the producer level will be put into effect during the next three weeks, Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan announced.

Mr. Kiernan said he expected the necessary order-in-council will be passed by the government before Monday.

Actual decontrol—under which only the producer price would be fixed—will not come into effect until two weeks following the order-in-council, the minister said.

Perfect Weather For Everest Try By British Group

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Britain's Everest expedition will have perfect climbing weather for the beginning of its assault on the world's highest mountain, the All-India radio broadcast said today.

It forecast overcast skies and occasional snow flurries, winds reaching about 45 miles an hour at the top of Mount Everest, and high altitude temperatures at between two and six degrees below zero. The monsoon, which invariably ends such expeditions, should break early in June, it added.

The British climbers and their guides are scheduled to begin their ascent today. The Indian radio beamed its broadcast specially for their benefit.

Two Flying Boxcars, Jet Plane Crash

HEMSBACH, Germany (UPI)—Three United States air force planes crashed in flames near here today.

The U.S. 12th Airforce headquarters at Landstuhl said two C-119 "flying boxcars" and a U.S. jet plane were involved.

It was not known immediately how many persons were involved in the triple crash.

First reports gave no indication of the cause of the air-disaster.

German police said a number of ambulances rushed to the scene of the crashes.

The C-119 is a twin-engine military transport plane.

Mother, Father Dead, Children Crying in Crib

LONE BUTTE, B.C. (CP)—Two tiny children were found whimpering in their crib Thursday in a one-room cabin, alone with the body of their mother. The body of their father was found hanging from a tree outside.

RCMP said it was a case of murder and suicide.

It stated definitely—for the first time—that this has been the last session of the current Parliament. Also, it gave a review of Liberal government accomplishments over the last four years.

The heavy emphasis on the government's moves appeared to lend some emphasis to the idea that it was directed toward the voters as well as to members of the Senate and House of Commons.

MONTREAL (CP)—Part of

Canada's official delegation to the Coronation today sailed for Britain in the Empress of Scotland.

The group included Trade Minister Howe, Works Minister Fournier, Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and Senator W. B. Evans, government leader in the Senate.

In a shipboard interview, Mr. Howe said he is confident the Liberals will be returned to power in the next federal election. He declined to speculate on when the election may be called.

"You'd better ask the prime minister about that," he said. "He is the only one who knows, and he is not with us."

There has been speculation that on his return from the Coronation Mr. St. Laurent will call an election for Aug. 10 or Aug. 17. Mr. St. Laurent will sail for Britain next week.

Mr. Howe said he will be overseas about three weeks. While in Britain he will attend a meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers, but he plans no other business.

"Actually I'm only going to the Coronation, and it's good to get away after a strenuous government session," he said.

LAING CHAMPIONS PRESS FREEDOM

Liberal Leader Sees Indications
Of Suppression Attempted in Alberta

(Special to the Times)

PENTICTON—In an uncompromising defense of an unfettered press as a cornerstone of liberty, Liberal Leader Arthur Laing last night warmly denounced Premier Bennett's "unprecedented" attack on newspapers at Salmon Arm Wednesday.

Mr. Laing quoted the Accurate News and Information Act passed by the Social Credit government of Alberta in 1937, later disallowed by the Supreme Court, and another act passed by the same government to restrict the civil rights of certain persons.

He read excerpts from both pieces of legislation to an audience of 100 in Masonic hall. He was speaking in support of Similkameen Liberal candidate Jim Fairley, Princeton station agent.

"The press is one of the most important sections of the foundations of our freedom," he said. "The press must not have special consideration, but it must be free or we shall not be free."

"Where is such an attack as this to lead?"

The premier was reported as saying that newspapers cover freedom as the precursor of censored under the Credit of Al-shrinking civil liberties. Mr. Laing also quoted from "An Act to Restrict the Civil Rights of Certain Persons," passed in Alberta in 1937.

This act in effect prohibited certain bank employees not li-

CABOT URGES U.S. TO FREE TRADE

NEW YORK (UP)—Assistant Secretary of State John M. Cabot said today Congress may lead the world down "the road to universal misery" if it adopts a protectionist tariff policy.

He said the livelihood of millions of Americans depends directly or indirectly on international trade. Without it, he said, the U.S. standard of living would be "calamitously affected."

Noting that Congress is considering proposals to increase protection for U.S. industries against foreign competition, he said:

"To save the employment of tens by special favors at the expense of throwing hundreds out of work—to protect millions of invested capital at the expense of tens of millions is not wisdom. It is the road to universal misery—closed factories, breadlines, despair the world over.

Cabot warned against protective tariffs in a speech prepared for the board of directors of the National Foreign Trade Council, Inc.

He said a protective tariff not only would choke off America's normal exports but also would substitute for them "liberal exports of resentment and despair." Furthermore, he said, a high tariff policy would play into the hands of Communist propagandists.

Adenauer, Churchill Talk New Pact

LONDON (AP)—German Chancellor Dr. Konrad Adenauer and Prime Minister Churchill met at 10 Downing Street at noon today for talks on Anglo-German relations.

No official agenda for the talks has been worked out, but British informants said the two leaders will concentrate on Monday's assurance by Churchill that Germany will never be "sacrificed" under Russian pressure. The informants said that Adenauer planned to press for details of the British leader's suggestion for a new "Locarno" agreement taking in Germany and Russia.

Gibbs Sees Split in Socred Ranks Challenge to Bennett Leadership

B.C.'s Social Credit Party is seriously divided over its monetary reforms that Premier Bennett's leadership is at stake, Oak Bay Liberal candidate Reeve P. A. Gibbs said Thursday night.

Victoria Socred candidate William N. Chant, "as a true Social Creditor," is being talked about as a successor to Premier Bennett, Reeve Gibbs said.

He was addressing more than 60 constituents at his opening campaign meeting at St. Mary's Hall.

Mr. Chant is a former Alberta agriculture minister. He was an unsuccessful candidate in Esquimalt last June, and is now president of the Victoria Socred Association.

"The schism is attributable to the monetary reforms which the Socred Party intends to bring into effect," Reeve Gibbs claimed.

EVASION CHARGE

The Liberal candidate, who was the financial critic in the six-man Liberal group in the last House, criticized Finance Minister Einar Gunderson for "evading or sidetracking the monetary reform issue."

"It is an important issue—one of the most important in this election because the Social Credit theory rests on dictatorship," he said.

Some features of this dictatorship, he contended, came out in the last session.

"These Socreds seek power in B.C. as a stop on the road to Ottawa, as stated publicly by Rev. Hansell and Mrs. Arsens. Once in power in Ottawa they will put in a dictator who will control wages, prices, currency and credit. A man who knows anything about Social Credit will admit that," said Reeve Gibbs.

He reiterated a challenge to Premier Bennett, Mr. Gunderson, Mr. Bonner and Mrs. Rolston to tell the people if they endorse Social Credit's plan for state control of credit, prices and wages. None of them responded to the challenge in the House, he said.

The Liberal candidate, criticizing the Socreds' plan to equalize assessments (Bill 45), said the measure would have been non-contentious if the bill actually meant what the title proposed.

OUTMODDED TAX BASIS

"But it introduces a basis (for school tax purposes) predicated on the outmoded and obsolescent personal property tax," he said.

The proposed definition of improvements to be taxed made several references to "things," he said, adding this was most interesting in its all-embracing connotation.

Reeve Gibbs said this could mean taxing of wearing apparel, home furnishings, kiddie-cars, outboard fishing boats and cars.

"Those citizens operating radio stations, newspapers, printing machines, garages, trucks, planers, or any type of machinery, including farmers, are to be assessed at 75 per cent of the value of the machinery on top of the land and buildings of their business property."

"It is clear that this reversion to pernicious personal property taxation is for the deliberate purpose of seeking the business-man to pay for school costs—which in the final analysis means high taxation for the people, inasmuch as business-men pass on or shift taxes by raising prices," Reeve Gibbs explained.

LONE HECKLER

Reeve Gibbs' only heckler was Socred W. A. Scott, who objected to a Liberal pamphlet which said Socred and Tory candidates in Oak Bay are not ratepayers or permanent residents.

"Do you want added eggs or fresh eggs?" asked Mr. Scott.

"Sit down, sit down," shouted some members of the audience.

"I call for a retraction or an apology to the two candidates

THE "FIREDOME" COMBUSTION CHAMBER

"The Chrysler Corporation has dared to set the pace for the industry by putting into mass production the type of engine which is universally recognized as the ideal. It's the automotive scoop of the decade."

That is the opinion of independent research test engineers who have put the DeSoto Firedome engine through its paces.

The DeSoto Firedome V-8 brings you the triple power advantages of "dome-shaped" combustion chambers—the most efficient design for complete combustion... short stroke piston action which reduces friction and lessens wear... high lift lateral valves for quieter, smoother operation. And it easily develops its rated 160 h.p. on regular grade gasoline.

You are invited to take your first opportunity to experience the thrill of driving the distinctively different DeSoto Firedome V-8. Just call your nearest Dodge-DeSoto dealer and arrange for a demonstration.

Rising Tide in Suez

THE DISPATCH OF COMMANDO troops to bolster the garrison of 80,000 which Britain maintains in the Suez Canal area emphasizes the critical trend currently seen in Anglo-Egyptian relations.

It is not the first time that the Suez negotiations have reached the shooting stage—the canal vicinity was the scene of active warfare not many months ago. But more recent conferences between the two countries had given rise to hopes that the problem could be peaceably terminated.

The British concessions made by Mr. Anthony Eden in regard to the Sudan and the canal territory had apparently paved the way to an early settlement. The Sudan question, indeed, was answered. The area received its independence, with an eventual opportunity to join with Egypt in a federal union.

But means rather than principles have proved to be the stumbling block. Egypt, under its strong man Gen. Naguib, wants complete evacuation of the canal territory except for 500 British technicians who would co-operate with Egyptian workers in maintaining the great engineering and defensive establishment. Britain insists that 5,000 British experts must remain after the troops have left.

This, Naguib sees as a direct affront to Egyptian nationalism. Against a background of small shooting affrays—Britain says there have been 30 attacks on army personnel since April 1—the general has begun to talk of spending Egyptian blood to win, in a holy war, "full Egyptian control" of the Suez base.

There is some doubt as to just how far Gen. Naguib would be prepared to go in carrying out such a program. A few twists for the lion's tail are stock-in-trade for a military dictator in his position, since such anti-British threats and attitudes are bound to win him favor among a large section of the public at this time.

On Britain's side, the treaty-bound Suez canal is a vital link in her global lifelines. It cannot be relinquished without adequate guarantee that it will be kept both operative and secure. In particular, it cannot be relinquished in the face of a threat from a power such as Egypt.

Gen. Naguib may find the sabre-rattling obligatory under the circumstances, but he will find a reasonable and realistic approach to the problem much more productive of results.

Attack by Innuendo

IN A DISTINGUISHED CAREER in public life and as a public speaker, Mrs. Nancy Hodges has justified a reputation for forthright statement no less than for an impressive method of presentation.

By example she is qualified to call upon political opponents to attempt to exercise at least the former of these virtues. She has done that in urging Social Credit candidates who were members of the recent government to produce facts, not innuendo, in the current campaign.

The former Madam Speaker expresses the wish of fair-minded citizens when she takes exception to the manner in which Social Credit candidates imply improper procedures in "secret orders-in-council," creating an impression of dishonesty without presenting the full evidence.

Those former government members know that the so-called secret orders-in-council are placed in a confidential file which is open to inspection by opposition members, and that they are confidential in the sense that they deal usually with personal matters and such questions as commitments to mental institutions and other issues of scant concern to the public.

If Social Crediters think they have proof of wrong-doing by the former administration in those "secret orders-in-council" then surely it is their duty to make the substance of them public.

There is a far more serious implication in the procedure the candidates have followed than a variation of the childish coyness which, in effect says, "I know something but I won't tell."

In the name of honesty and fair play, and in the interests of the public, this system of veiled suggestion is not good enough. If the members of the recent government expect the confidence of the voters, then surely it is up to them to show the same confidence in the voters.

The public is entitled to frank statements, buttressed by the facts—all the facts, not just those which suit a particular political purpose at this time.

Helping the Fishermen

UNTIL DETAILS OF THE PROJECT are outlined, Fisheries Minister James Sinclair's announcement of a fishermen's insurance scheme to cover boats and gear cannot become a matter of informed comment. At the same time, the suggestion is one which will arouse widespread interest in this part of Canada.

Scarcely a week passes without some news item telling the story of loss through accident by men engaged in this important industry. Fires aboard craft, wrecks and foundering in storms, as well as destruction of nets and other accessories are familiar topics. They are among accompaniments of the fishing industry that are taken as almost inevitable. If some government measure can lighten the blow such mishaps inflict on the men who go to sea in relatively small vessels, the industry as a whole should benefit.

The plan seems to be a matter of very proper study by the federal authorities. All Canadians, to some extent, are concerned with the fishing industry, either as consumers or as producers. Further information on the issue will be awaited with the hope that assistance is forthcoming to group of citizens whose occupation carries with it unavoidable hazards.

Honored by Their Successes

BY THEIR ACHIEVEMENTS IN final examinations of recent date, Victoria students at the University of British Columbia, at Victoria College and at other higher institutions of learning on this continent have brought further honors to this city.

The accomplishment of Peter L. Smith, Governor-General's Gold Medalist at U.B.C., extends a pattern of scholarship he has followed for several years—notably since he led the province in junior matriculation examinations in 1949.

He and his Victoria fellow students have been outstanding in their successes at Point Grey. Through them the preparatory schools of this city attain unique distinction.

Cracking the Barrier

SGT. JOHN MCKENZIE, WHO has been appointed to instruct the RCAF's pipe and drum band at North Luffenham, England, is described as coming from "a line of pipers dating to the days when the pibroch first sounded across the Scottish moors."

Yet it will not be the pipe major's qualifications that occasion interest as he establishes himself with the RCAF's No. 1 fighter wing, so much as the fact that he is there at all.

The connection between fighter aircraft and bagpipes must remain to most minds a remote one. And whatever may be the joys of bagpipe playing on the home parade grounds, it is difficult to see how the pipes can ever perform, in this new element, their historic duty of leading troops gloriously and cacophonously into battle.

Yet on second thought there is a connection. Both the modern jet plane and the bagpipes may be seen as having a joint concern in overcoming the problem of the sound barrier—a problem that in the case of the pipes, it must be admitted, has heretofore been found largely insuperable among persons of non-Scottish origin.

The Folly of the Mob

ROME—Just as it once cheered Caesar, then Brutus, then Anthony and finally Mussolini, a Roman mob was cheering fascism and communism in Rome tonight. But as a spectacle it was a poor affair—and no one but the professional agitators of both sides seemed to take it seriously.

Hutchison

Perhaps 500 young men had assembled, as they assemble every night in the shelter of a huge arcade on the main street, and there they conducted their ideological argument in a perpetual scream for three hours. Nose to nose and lip to lip, faces contorted with an ecstasy of rage, they screamed at one another, waved their hands, shook their fists and writhed like whirling dervishes. In that welter of sound and fury even the noise of Rome's incredible traffic was drowned out.

Three policemen in blue uniforms and red-striped breeches stood on the edge of the crowd, their swords held upright on the pavement, and looked ostentatiously the other way, but they observed the proceedings out of the corners of their eyes. This nation is now a democracy and every Italian can say what he pleases, even if he is a Communist. The nightly tumult in the great arcade on Via del Corso is the Italian Hyde Park, a Roman holiday without the old butchery.

Outside the hard core of the young men who reeled and clamored in swaying frenzy the crowd of older people was more orderly. They were dressed in a pleasant social custom and costs nothing to come here of an evening and observe the madness of youth.

Old men and their wives chatted amiably or drank a cup of coffee at the nearby tables while the democracy of Rome seemed to be exploding before their eyes. A haggard man in a torn leather coat leaped up on the pedestal of a marble pillar, rubbing his hands, hugging himself with delight, cheering on the contestants, as the mob used to salute the gladiators down the street. It was all good, clean fun.

ROME is used to such amusements. Under our feet lay buried a dozen civilizations, kingdoms, systems, and empires, now forgotten. While in the floodlights, the broken eggshell of the Colosseum, the ruined columns of the Forum, the carved arches of triumph and the shattered walls of a dozen palaces reminded the observer that Rome has been arguing, fighting, destroying and creating for some 28 centuries.

And a few blocks away Mussolini's dark brown palace, the tiny gallery from which he raved at crowds of 200,000 people and declared a jackal's war in his progress toward a lynching party, stood dark, silent and ignored.

As the young men shouted and jostled, and the central argument swirled into a dozen private feuds I expected speech to turn into the violence of riot at any moment and carefully prepared my exit through a back alley. But no blow was struck, no weapon used except the vocal chords.

A genial old gentleman with a slightly face, observing my perplexity, explained in perfect English that I must not be misled by the habits of his countrymen. The Communist party, he said, paid its professional agitators 2,000 liras a night (about $3) to put on this show as part of the present national election campaign. Naturally, the extreme right-wing parties had to answer this propaganda and hence the nightly show on Via del Corso. It was pleasant enough, my friend remarked, but would have no effect on the election.

Sitting over a cup of coffee and raising our voices to make ourselves heard above the roar of professional politics we fell to talk about Italy. The old gentleman with the saint's beard said that of course the recent history of Italy was very sad. Yet it must be remembered that the follies of Mussolini were also very brief, after all, in a history of nearly 3,000 years, and they were finished. Italians, as a whole, he believed, were sickened by those memories, hated war more than any other people in Europe and only wanted to be left alone.

I ASKED him if his people envied the Americans who have been helping to support the Italian state through the Marshall Plan. At this the old man turned on me a gentle smile, as one would smile at the questions of a child. "The Italian," he said, "never envies anybody. Why? Because he has the sun."

I was seeing here, he explained, only the fever of a capital which had remained pretty feverish for many centuries. On my drive through the country I had seen only the life of the main road. He could take me in half an hour to places where people lived almost exactly in the fashion of their ancestors in the Middle Ages. These people, for all the convulsions of modern life, did not wish to change their ways. They asked only enough to eat and drink under the Mediterranean sun, Italy's sovereign asset.

THEN very gently and respectfully—speaking above the screams of the Roman mob—he suggested that Italy might have something to contribute even to the life of a power like the United States.

The time was not yet, it might not come for many years, but eventually the Americans would have to learn more than mastery of machines, politics and war. They would have to learn to live. That, he ventured to believe, they had not yet learned. The life of the ordinary Italian under the sun might teach the younger peoples a valuable lesson.

He added: "When people from America behave here—how shall I say?—unwisely, we do not grow angry. We know they are so very young. And," he sighed, "we are so very old and a little tired. Yes, but we still have the sun."

IN POINT of fact it was raining hard that night, a rain to rescue the long-parched farm lands, but it would be sunny in the morning. Via del Corso was a glittering, solid procession of umbrellas, like a Roman phalanx. Few of the people who hurried along the main street turned their heads to observe the incipient riot in the shelter of the arcade.

When I left at 11 o'clock the young men still screamed and gestured, lip to lip, the fellow in the torn coat still strode his pedestal shouting encouragement to both sides and the saintly old man was reading a newspaper over his empty coffee cup, deaf, like the ancient philosophers of Rome, to the folly of the mob.

Not Enough To Go Round

The Financial Post

SINCE the end of the war about 600,000 new homes have been built in this country. One out of six Canadians tosses his hat into, or leaves his tricycle in front of a postwar home.

This year we are building new houses faster than ever before. But there's still a housing shortage. And the reasoning of a lot of people runs like this: Not enough homes because not enough mortgages. Not enough mortgages because life insurance companies, loan companies and trust companies are a bunch of tightwads who want to hold on to their money to get higher rates.

Let's look at the facts. The increasing pressure on mortgage funds comes because of the almost open winter. Mortgage approvals this year are running sky-high over last year.

Lending institutions aren't deliberately cutting off mortgages. They haven't got the money to lend. They are close to the limits in mortgage investments. There must be a balance kept with other fields. Often for instance, it's of more long-term importance, even for housing, to provide money to a town for schools and sewers than it is to help build houses directly. In this regard Resources Minister Winters says the lack of serviced land is a more serious deterrent to housebuilding than the shortage of mortgage money.

Some may think the lending companies are holding out for higher interest on mortgages. It is well to remember that the mortgage interest pattern is set by the government through the NHA rates. And after all, this is an elective year.

What is a housing shortage? That we must decide, before there's any new cry for government help. For the whole concept is a relative one.

Family formations and old homes wearing out put a physical base to the housing needs of something around 90,000 homes a year. But this is no limit. We will keep on wanting more and better homes as long as we have expanding tastes and as long as we have money to spend.

And if we want to buy new cars, television sets, push back a frontier, build factories and support a defense program at the same time, we just won't have the money to build all the houses we may want. And that's where we find ourselves right now.

MARKED for READING NOT COMIC

In an age of enforced conformity, the independent man is suspect even if he never alludes to the sacred cows of the time. It is the fact that he cherishes independence that makes him dangerous; if he laughs at a fairy tale today, perhaps he will laugh at a national myth tomorrow and at a patriotic idol the next day.

TOTEM THEATRE, one of Vancouver's two repertory companies, asked the Vancouver Parks Board if it could produce plays outdoors in Little Mountain Park this summer. The problem was shelved for a while, to allow the board some deep old-fashioned cogitation and heart-searching. I don't know what the final decision was. That doesn't concern us here. What concerns us is the curious reaction of certain members of that board. They were alarmed at the very idea of private enterprise putting on shows in a public park. Up came the old argument: "If we let one do it, we'd have to let a million do it. It would be a dangerous precedent!"

I DON'T know how many repertory companies the Board thinks Vancouver has. A million? Of course, the Theatre Under the Stars does put on musical comedies in Stanley Park, but that's different. That particular company is owned by the city, so it can do no harm, you see. If it were privately owned, it would be a sorry business. One shudders to think of it. I can remember the Totem Theatre putting on plays all one summer in Ambleside Park in West Vancouver, without doing any great damage to the park, the public, or to precedent. But I dare say West Vancouver is shockingly ill-run, and deserves any false logic it inflicts on itself.

IN Regent's Park, in London, I used to see excellent plays put on by something that was obviously private enterprise, and I saw no harm in it. Maybe I'm just a dirty capitalist at heart. I saw some more private enterprise in Regent's Park, too... the London Zoo happens to be owned by a private society. Shocking. Yes, and they sold meals for humans as well as for beasts, and I ate one of those meals. I did, as bold as brass.

In Vancouver itself, on the beach at English Bay (which comes under the sway of the Parks Board), I vividly remember a company of privately-owned pierrots called The Varsatiles. They had built a little stage and put on the usual song-and-dance-and-sketch act of the seaside, with more than usual skill.

ONE of them was the accomplished Mr. Frank Vyvyan, whom the Parks Board itself employs in the Theatre Under the Stars. What is the particular difference between Mr. Vyvyan paid by the city and Mr. Vyvyan paid by The Varsatiles? And does the public sense this difference at once, and break into a cold sweat of indignation and fear?

Well, well, I trust that the Vancouver Parks Board will purify its holy glades still further. It could, for example, refuse to pay royalties to the owners of those musical comedies under the stars. It could write to the copyright owners and explain that money is sordid stuff under the stars.

It is evident that I did not make myself clear. What I intended to convey was that I would not accept the statement of one group of men returning from Korea unless I knew that such statements had been checked by competent authorities and this had particular reference to their statements on germ warfare.

As an active supporter of the United Nations I try always to keep an open mind and sift rumors for their authority and I would prefer to take as authentic statements of the authorities who have investigated such question rather than the remarks of one group of men such as were quoted.

Filling in the Gaps

A SPECIAL committee of teachers has produced the draft of a new course for some Grade Nine students at S. J. Willis Junior High. I don't think even Salmon Arm's A. J. Reid could find anything communistic or immoral in it.

There are sections which might encourage cheap little people to make cheap little wisecracks about it, and possibly they will. Education is a fair target for criticism—a lot of it legitimate and constructive. Unfortunately, some of the stuff that passes as criticism of education is just an exhibition of the lack of it.

Still, the new course should stand up under either type. It's a little inspiring in its ideal and encouraging in the means by which its authors hope to reach their goal.

The originators of the proposal have looked long at those youngsters who just don't have the aptitude for higher study. They've seen the boys and girls floating upward in the school system and watched their bewilderment and resentment develop as they were expected to cope with material beyond their abilities.

DROP-OUTS

They've seen them drop out of class year by year without apparently receiving the benefits that should have been theirs. The work didn't take. They couldn't handle it. All they got out of higher grade schooling was a sense of frustration and an unwholesome disregard for the educational process. Designers of the new course weren't satisfied that the schools were doing a job for that class. They've tried to create something better and they've taken it for granted that the course will be acceptable to youngsters who don't want to, or haven't the capacities to, go beyond Grade Nine, which is the last year of Junior High and corresponds to what is the first year of the Senior High four-year course.

If the idea is carried through, the new program should give the class something it can handle and relieve the high schools of the difficulties such students pose for them as teachers try to meet the requirements of the more scholastic groups.

Basically the course will attempt to give the young people a better grounding in simple subjects. They'll have more emphasis laid on spelling, on uncomplicated arithmetic and reading. They'll be given the opportunity to develop potential manual skills and they should emerge with sounder knowledge of everyday requirements than they would have if they advanced to higher study without mastering the subjects they've already taken but haven't absorbed in lower grades.

The success of the plan will depend largely on the attitudes it creates in the students. It should give them a better appreciation of their abilities and limitations. It should prove to them that while they're not going to be skilled professional people, astronomers, doctors, lawyers and the like, they still have the capacity to be good citizens able to do a day's work of some value.

COMING TO TERMS

I'm hoping it will do a great deal more. I'm hoping it will help them to live with themselves and with other people as well as make a living. Just possibly it will convince them that they don't have to be smart alecs, that they don't have to pretend to know things they can't grasp, and that it will help them to come to terms with the world in which they live.

I'm hoping that provisions in the course for their development of wholesome leisure time activities will be satisfying to them. I'm hoping it will make them better Canadians, realizing to the limit of their abilities the responsibilities that are theirs.

And more immediately I'm hoping no adults seize on the course as a profitable way of winning a little publicity through an attack on just another of "the frills in education."

Five-Dollar Secrets

THE locations of emergency air fighter landing strips in northern Canada, classified as "secret" by senior air force officers, may be had for five dollars from the department of mines and technical surveys in Ottawa—and no questions asked.

What the air force claims is information which cannot be disclosed for security reasons, is treated by the department of transport as common knowledge. As a result a publication entitled "The Canada Air Pilot," compiled by the mines department, contains detailed information on the location of northern landing strips.

Hon. George Prudham, minister of mines and technical surveys, commenting on reports his department had given away "classified" information, said "There is absolutely no secret about this information."

But Air Vice Marshal A. L. James, chief of air defense command at St. Hubert, Que., told newspapermen, "This is secret information that cannot be given out," when he was queried about the northern landing strips.

Hon. Brooke Claxton, minister of defense, replied in the Commons, when queried on whether the location of the landing strips was supposed to be confidential, "You can't keep an air strip secret." What was kept secret was the purpose and the fact that it might fit into a system of other strips. He added, "There is no breach of security whatever in the mines and technical surveys publication."

Mr. Prudham, in his comment, said his department merely acts as the agent of the transport department in publication of the loose-leaf books for which printed inserts are circulated every two weeks to keep the owner of the book up to date. All the information has been approved officially and is not classified.

Air Vice Marshal James told newspapermen however that, "knowledge of the location of these air strips by the enemy would nullify the surprise effect of our interceptors could have on attacking bombers."

F. M. Allan, chief of the air photography and aeronautical charts section of the mines department, said there are between 1,000 and 1,500 copies of the Canada Air Pilot publication in circulation. They were in the hands of both commercial and private pilots and in the defense department.

There is an interdepartmental committee, set up by order-in-council, called the committee on air charting. Representatives from the air force, navy, the mines and transport departments sit on the committee. It meets four times a year to decide what information can be published. If there is any objection to any information, it is not used, said Mr. Allan.

A considerable amount of security information about the north is never published. This includes military installations on some northern islands, radar station locations and other information. The location of landing strips in the north does not fall into this category because they have been licensed by the transport department and may be used by any aircraft.

Andrews Sisters Still Feud

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The Andrews sisters still are feuding. Patti Andrews said today, because she's trying to "grow up" and Maxene and Laverne won't let her.

Patti, the pert blonde who's the soloist in the famed trio, admitted the girls broke up in a tiff a month ago and reconciliation attempts have fizzled.

Laverne once sobbed that Patti broke up the act with financial demands for herself and her husband, Wallie Weschler, her accompanist.

But Patti, the "baby" of the family, bristled "I just want to be treated as an equal and as a grown-up."

"In time this all will work out," she told me. "I'm sure we'll be back together. But it's up to my sisters to make the first move. I'm just going to sit and wait."

"You see, for years we've always pooled our money. We formed a corporation, and had a business manager who paid all the expenses of the act, and we drew equal salaries from the corporation.

"I decided it would be much healthier for me, mentally and physically, if I handled my own money."

"I want our money to be split three ways, and each of us pay our own expenses and handle our own money. You know how it is—you don't want somebody to be paying money out every day and you not knowing where it goes. A lot of our money has been spent foolishly that way."

Patti said she was shocked to hear Laverne had said Weschler was "leading me (Patti) around with a ring in my nose." All she wants, she insisted, is a $50 raise because "he does more besides accompany us now."

The youngest of the Andrews clan thinks the basic hitch is the traditional idea that "the youngest in any family knows less than anybody on earth."

"I finally assert myself, and speak up and everybody says, 'Oh, my God, she talks, she's got a mind,'" Patti said.

Crown Proves Taxing for Dressmaker

LONDON (UP)—The nervous strain of designing Queen Elizabeth II's Coronation gown has proved too taxing for dressmaker Norman Hartnell.

Hartnell, 52, was ordered to bed for a rest. His condition was diagnosed as "run down." At his home in suburban London he complained today: "I don't smoke. I don't drink. I live on baby foods. But I've lost enough weight to make my head look bigger than my body."

Work on the Queen's Coronation gown—which she will wear beneath her royal purple monies June 2—continues in secret at Hartnell's workrooms in the city. He directs the work from his home.

Details of the Queen's gown and fashions for six of her attendants are top secret. Hartnell's staff of designers and seamstresses have been sworn to silence.

But London fashion gossip says the gown will be of ivory or cream-colored satin. Hartnell drew scores of sketches for the gown and the Queen selected one with suggested modifications. It was a complex designing job because of the unusual qualifications the finished garment must meet. It must be easy to kneel in and sit in, and must be fashioned so that it will not restrict the Queen as she enters and leaves coaches.

Comfort is of prime importance, too, because the Queen will wear the gown six-and-a-half hours on Coronation Day.

One fitting has taken place at Buckingham Palace. Hartnell and two of his top fitters took the gown to the palace shrouded in muslin and tissue paper inside a wooden box.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—Frank Mitchell, CCF candidate for Esquimalt, told an election meeting audience here that Dr. F. T. Fairley, deputy education minister, has said that rural areas and municipalities would lose out under the Rolston education formula.

LADYSMITH—Women will compete on equal terms with men in the annual coho derby here Aug. 23. It was decided this week at the regular meeting of Ladysmith Fish and Game Protective Association. Women themselves are in full accord with the idea, association officials said.

NANAIMO—Nanaimo property owners voted 1,221 to 360 Thursday in favor of purchasing the Beban estate for $50,000 for use as a sports ground, exhibition park, and possible site for a senior citizens' home.

Only 957 votes were required to carry the plebiscite. Purchase includes 163 acres of land, a 10-room home, barns, greenhouses, and a racetrack.

Foul Bay Beach Cabin Must Move, Council Submits

Owner of a log hut on the Foul Bay beach foreshore will be advised by the city that the building is contrary to city by-laws.

Council at its meeting Thursday did not state whether it would order removal. Action came in response to a complaint from residents.

City Building Inspector J. W. Oosterink and Fire Chief Frank Briers said the building was not contrary to building or fire regulations.

"That is not the question," said Ald. Waldo Skillings. "The building is not on private property, but foreshore, and was built without a permit."

YOUNGSTER KILLED

GRAVELBOURG, Sask. (CP)—Eight-year-old Gilbert Lizee was fatally wounded Thursday while shooting gophers on his father's farm near here.

The boy was out with his 15-year-old brother, Raymond. It was not determined how a shot believed fired by Raymond happened to strike Gilbert. A bullet from a .22-calibre rifle struck him in the head. He was dead on arrival at hospital.

Council Resigns Over Protests On Adoption of Daylight Time

CHOICELAND, Sask. (CP)—The council of this town 60 miles northeast of Prince Albert has resigned following a protest by farmers and others against adoption of fast time.

The community's secretary, Mrs. Harold Gibson, has been appointed administrator by the provincial municipal affairs department until a new council is elected.

Hon. L. F. McIntosh, municipal affairs minister, has declined to comment. In an interview, Mrs. Gibson said the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union branch appeared to be originators of a petition reportedly signed by some 400 farmers and residents protesting against fast time. Main argument appeared to be that children needed the extra hour's sleep.

CALGARY MAN DROWNED

CALGARY (CP)—Jim Rulack, 19, of Calgary, was drowned Thursday and two companions barely escaped when a boat capsized on the Bow River.

Nick Miskulin, 32, hauled himself 70 feet along a cable to safety. Steve Toporoski, 30, still clinging to the boat, was rescued by three men who after the accident. The three were pulling a large rope across the river, part of preliminary work for a new bridge.

Rulack's body, entangled with rope, was recovered 25 minutes after the accident.

Allied Experts Laud Russian Jet Progress

Despite Five-Year Handicap Soviet Advance Reported to Far Outstrip That of West

PARIS (UP)—Experts at Supreme Allied Headquarters said today that Russia has far outstripped the west in jet aircraft development, despite a five-year handicap. It is just 12 years ago today since the successful flight of Frank Whittle's Gloster F28-29 ushered the free world into the jet age.

The starting date of Soviet jet production is generally believed to have been in 1946, when captured German experts were put at the service of Russian planners—and Britain's labor government began shipping jet engines to Russia to serve as prototypes.

Russia and the West are running neck and neck today in the quality of jets in service—and presumably on the drawing board—but the Soviet air fleet has a vast advantage in quantity.

A mere handful of U.S. Sabre jets have so far arrived in Europe to face the swarm of Russian Mig's based along the Iron Curtain. Nearly half of the Atlantic pact air fleet consists of F-84 Thunderjets, which are no match for the speedy Soviet interceptors.

Russia, generally, has been reported reinforcing her satellite airfields with twin-engine jet bombers like Britain's Can-

3 Canadian Nurses Work On War Front

OTTAWA (CP)—Three Canadian nurses in Korea have carried the petticoat penetration of a man's world to the field dressing station, hitherto an exclusively male preserve in the army.

Army headquarters said Thursday the nurses—Capt. Elizabeth Pense of Kingston, Ont., and Lieuts. Marjorie Horsnell of Fredericton, N.B., and Helen McIntyre of Ingersoll, Ont.—now are entrenched at the 25th Canadian field dressing station in Korea.

They had a tough time breaking down official opposition to women working at field dressing stations which generally are close to the front lines. However, Capt. Pense made capital of the fact that this station is farther than usual from the front.

Now, Capt. Pense is working on adding another four nurses to her staff.

Observatory Inlet in the Cassiar district of British Columbia was so named by Captain Vancouver in 1793.

Opposition Members Commend Canada's New Penal Reform Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Progressive Conservative and CCF members joined Thursday in the Commons to congratulate Canada's penitentiary administration for its new penal reform system designed to give prisoners training and a new start in life.

John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) described it as a "remarkable success" that he felt would bring a reduction in the number of repeaters.

William Bryce (CCF—Selkirk) said he had made a study of the problem and Canada was doing a good job compared to other countries.

But all agreed on one thing.

BACKACHE May Be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now. 51

The wardens and guards of penitentiaries, with more responsibility under the new system, should receive more money.

Mr. Bryce said they also should get a five-day work week. For want of better money and working conditions, he said, good men were being lost to the penitentiaries and police forces.

Justice Minister Garson said the aim is to get men of "intelligence and compassion" for penitentiary work. He said the salary scale for grade one guards now ranged between $2,424 and $2,784 a year compared with $1,200 and $1,500 in 1945. Most worked a 5½-day week.

Times Crossword Contest $75 in Cash

(No winner last week.)

THE RULES

Solve the clues as you would any crossword puzzle. Clip out the desired word and mail it to The Times Crosswords, c/o Victoria Daily Times. Extra entries may be submitted on facsimiles of the same form, the same size. But NO MORE than TEN facsimiles will be accepted with each original.

All answers must be received by the morning mail of next Wednesday. Be sure to clip on the dotted line. This is for the convenience of tallying entries.

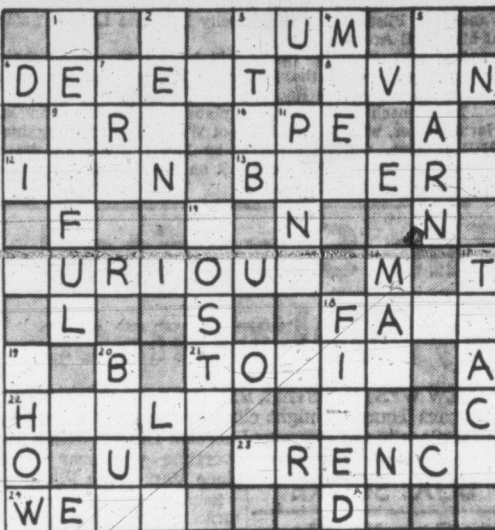

EARLY MAILING WILL BE APPRECIATED

The answer will be printed in next Thursday's paper and the winners the same day. It will be a good idea to keep a record of your solution to compare it with the answer.

If more than one contestant succeeds in answering the puzzle correctly the prize money will be divided among those having the correct solutions. If no one succeeds in answering the puzzle correctly the prize will be added to next week's puzzle prize money and so on until a winner is obtained.

Study the clues carefully before you write down your answers. There is always one answer which is the best. The decision of the judges in the contest will be final and all contestants taking part agree to abide by the decision.

First Canada TV Network In Operation

MONTREAL (BUP) — The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation tonight unveiled Canada's first television network and announced plans to operate a second TV station in Montreal possibly late this year.

Alphonse Oulmet, general manager of the publicly-owned corporation, told a news conference after Toronto and Montreal viewers were linked by a microwave relay system, that the second station would provide English language programs. CBCT, the present station, operates on a bilingual schedule.

The decision to set up a second station here "soon," by the end of this year or early in 1954, would make Montreal the first city in Canada to have two TV stations.

Oulmet said it was hoped that CBCTV eventually would operate along the same lines as the CBC's national broadcasting system, carrying video to outlying areas.

The province of the Cape of Good Hope in the Union of South Africa covers 277,000 square miles.

United Church Camp Fund $5,000 Target in Sight

There is high hope that the United Church campaign to raise $5,000 for completion of its summer camp at Shawnigan Lake will reach its objective in another two weeks. Denis Hagar, chairman of the drive, announced today.

The money is to be used for carrying out improvements and additions to cabins already at the lake camp. Port Alberni is the first Island centre to have met its quota, although many districts are close.

Joe, Rocky Both Confident of Title Victory

By JERSEY JOE WALCOTT
CHICAGO (AP)—I'm in fine condition and think I can win tonight.
I have trained hard and faithfully for this fight. I trained longer and harder for it than any fight I ever had.
I am in shape for a one-round fight or for 15 rounds. I would like to win by a knockout. And if I get the chance at any time I will try for a knockout punch.
I have no set style for this fight. I will change my plans as it goes along if the need be. I'm so well trained that I can change my style to offense or defense in any one round.
In 24 years of fighting I never lost a round on a foul nor have I ever been warned for foul fighting.

By ROCKY MARCIANO
CHICAGO (AP)—I am going to win tonight. I'm confident of it.
This title means my entire future and I'm not giving it up easy.
Walcott will have to knock me out to get the title back. He tried it once and he couldn't.
This fight will not go the limit. Of that I am sure. In fact, I don't think it will go eight rounds. I am going to be trying for a kayo from the start.
I don't underestimate Walcott. He fought a great fight against me in Philadelphia and some say I was lucky to win. Maybe I was, but I fought like an amateur that night. I feel that I have improved since.

Ticket Sale Light, Marciano 3-1 Choice

By JERRY LISK
CHICAGO (AP)—Unbeaten Rocky Marciano defends his heavyweight title against former champion Jersey Joe Walcott in a long-awaited 15-round rematch at Chicago Stadium tonight.
The two fighters, held at bay since a nose injury to Marciano postponed an original April 10 meeting, were to weigh in at 1 p.m., EDT, noon EDT, for their bout at 10 p.m., EDT.
Despite their classic first encounter at Philadelphia last Sept. 23 when a trailing Marciano dethroned Walcott with a pulverizing 13th-round knockout, the assault on the box office has been disappointingly light.
The TV factor, and both local and national broadcasting unquestionably squelched the ticket sale.
The fact the fight has been so long in the making has spun cobwebs around such pertinent facts as:
1. The 28-year-old Marciano is seeking his 44th pro victory without defeat in his first title defense;

CINDERELLA MAN JUST A WALLFLOWER NOW

CHICAGO (AP)—The big guy sat there with fight writers swirling around him, ignoring him, leaving him looking lonesome in their midst.
He sat quietly, sipping refreshments, watching and waiting for a handshake, a pat on the back, some kind of recognition.
Meanwhile, talk of tonight's Rocky Marciano-Jersey Joe Walcott showdown buzzed throughout the room—a beehive of more than 400 International Boxing Club guests.
Someone brushed against the big guy, looked down, and muttered: "Sorry, pal."
It set an onlooker to wondering. Some old fight champions really fade away, or it looked that way at this moment.
Then Herman Taylor, a Philadelphia promoter, reached over and pumped the ponderous gent's hand. Al Weill, Marciano's manager, also shook hands.
Felix Bocchicchio, Walcott's little pilot, piped: "Hello, there."
The spell was broken. Jim Braddock began to smile.

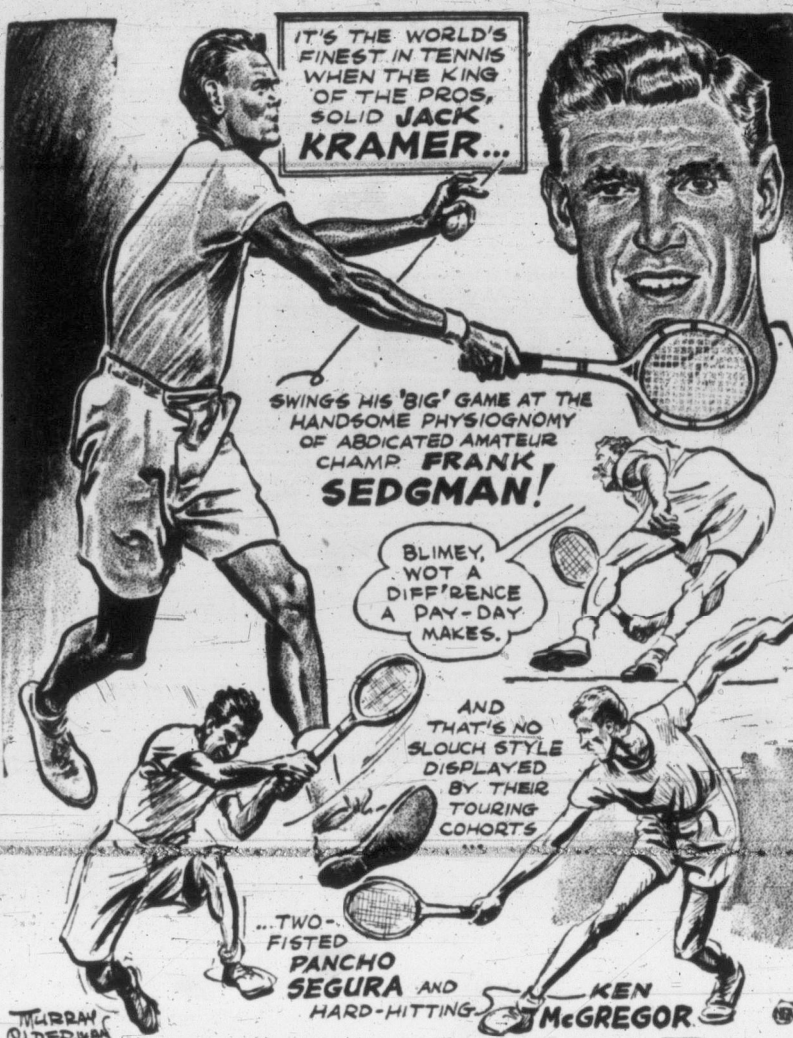

Braves Hit Jackpot; Chiefs Overtake Tyees

With the Western International League baseball season nearly a month old, Tri-City Braves Thursday night finally collected the cash and hardware put up by Kenniwick merchants for the season's first home run.
And it was Tommy Marier, who isn't noted for hitting the long ball, who finally cracked the ice for the Braves. Their longest hit previously was a double.
Marier's sixth-inning, bases-empty homer netted him $100, a watch and other prizes, and was one of the Braves' two round-trippers in their 6-4 victory over Spokane. Jack Warren's homer with one aboard won the game in the last of the ninth. It gave Tri-City a 21-edge in the series at Kenniwick.
Wenatche continued its drive toward the top, moving into third place half-a-game ahead of Victoria with a 4-0 shutout over Edmonton Eskimos.
In other games, Yakima shellacked Calgary 11-5 while Lewiston and Salem split a round-trippers in their 6-4 victory over Spokane. Jack Warren's homer with one aboard won the game in the last of the

Chisox Threaten Yanks, Braves Tie for NL Lead

Chicago White Sox kept coming back for more at Yankee Stadium Thursday and wound up with their third straight victory over the Yankees.
The score was 7-5 with the winning runs coming in the ninth inning on the type of finish the Yankees thought was their own private patent.
The Sox continue their visit with the Yankees today and Saturday. With the kind of hitting hustle they showed Thursday they could leave town in first place. At the moment the Yankees lead them by 1½ games.
The contrast between the White Sox and Cleveland Indians, most experts' choice as the Yanks' most dangerous rival, was startling. The Indians showed almost nothing in two games in New York earlier in the week.
Thursday, with ex-Yankee catcher Schemm Lollar showing the way, the White Sox fought back from a 4-1 deficit to lead 5-4, then rallied again after Don Bollweg had homered for New York to tie the score. Lollar hit a home run and two singles in four times at bat, driving in three runs and scoring two.
Meanwhile Cleveland was losing its fourth in a row at Boston, 5-4, in 11 innings. In night games—Washington won its sixth straight, 2-1, over St. Louis, and Philadelphia nipped Detroit 5-3.
Milwaukee pulled into a tie with Philadelphia Phillies for the National League lead as cold, wet weather in the midwest continued to disrupt the schedule.
St. Louis Cardinals evened their season's record with Brooklyn Dodgers by whipping them 8-3 in the only other National League game.

CHICAGO (AP)—Old heavyweight champions don't come back, according to boxing's oldest tradition. Here's what happened when they tried:
Jim Corbett, knocked out by Jim Jeffries, 1900.
Bob Fitzsimmons, knocked out by Jeffries, 1902.
Corbett, knocked out by Jeffries, 1903.

Lapointe no Puzzle As Aces Edge Sailors

It isn't often that a hurler gets in trouble for having too much control, but Thursday night at Central Park Rene Lapointe of Navy was the victim of his own ability to get the ball over the plate.
Lapointe was fogging his fast ball platewards and Butler Dros, Aces were knocking, it back past him just as fast. After building up a four-run lead the Aces held on to the edge 5-3.
For the Aces it marked their second straight victory as they moved into a tie for second place in the Senior A Men's Softball League, two points behind the league-leading Navy nine.
The suburbanites picked up a total of 12 hits off Lapointe mainly by hitting the first pitch, and it wasn't until George Kinch came in to relieve Lapointe in the seventh that the Aces were stopped. Kinch cut down the last nine batters in a row.
Butlers opened the scoring when John Furmston's single got by centre-fielder Roy Jones, Furmston scoring.
Two singles and a sacrifice put the Aces two up in the fourth, and Don Hendry lined out a home run in the top of the fifth for his team's third run.
Furmston led off in seventh with a single. Hendry followed with a long blow to right field that was dropped by the fielder, both runners scoring.
Furmston went the route for the Aces. He was reached for eight hits, gave up two walks, including one intentional pass, and struck out six. Lapointe was charged with the loss, his second of the season.
Tonight at 6.30 the Capital City Gasmen meet Chinese Students. The Students will be gunning for first place.

Capitanos Prove Downright Ornerly

Take Fourth Straight From Tyees

Vancouver 8, Victoria 5

By BILL WALKER

If general manager Reg Patterson of the Tyees had his vote over again, he would certainly veto the present Western International Baseball League schedule.

Slated to meet the Vancouver Capitanos 27 games in all this season, the Tyees have found they've got a tiger by the tail that they can't hold.

Thursday night it was no different than at Vancouver earlier in the week.

Fresh from three victories over the defending champions on the mainland, Caps muffed the salt a little deeper Thursday with an 8-5 triumph at Athletic Park to consolidate their hold on second place.

The game was over practically before it started at Athletic Park as the Tyees got a chance to bat.

Rookie right-hander Don Hopp, for whom the plate has no affinity whatsoever, found out quickly that bases on balls and base hits don't mix.

Four walks, with singles by Frank Mascaro and Don Lundberg sandwiched between, plus a mental lapse by either Hopp or Don Pries (take your choice) when Hopp threw the ball to third when third baseman Pries wasn't there, and the Caps had six first-inning runs which proved to be enough.

A double by Mascaro, when right-fielder Don Taylor slipped on the outfield grass and following single by Cap manager Harvey Storey, his third hit of the game, accounted for the first two Cap markers in the sixth. Bill Prie retired nine Caps in order in three innings of relief.

THE FINAL WORD

The Tyees took but one inning to get their total all but one. And they might have got more, except that plate umpire Jack Collins succeeded in proving that "to err is human."

Forgiveness wasn't divine in the Tyees hearts, though, as Cec Garriott disputed a called third strike in the midst of the rally. Later, others followed suit.

Lu Branham opened the fourth with a single. Jim Clark, playing second base because his injured finger is still giving him trouble on the long throw from short, was safe on an error by shortstop Chuck Davis. Prie singled to score Branham and it appeared that Garriott had a base on balls until umpire Collins thought otherwise.

A walk to Nap Guley, leading the bases, an infield out by Chuck Abernathy, scoring Clark, and a two-run single by Gale Taylor completed the four-run output. Garriott singled home Branham, who had doubled, with the final run in the ninth.

Lonnie Myers gave the Tyees 11 hits in the victory, using his opening-inning cushion effectively when the need arose.
Zebadiah Walker (2-0) will attempt to halt the four-game winning streak of the Caps tonight. Monday the club will offer a refrigerator to some lucky fan who cares to see Walker, or other members of the Tyees staff, tempt such fortune in the remaining games of the series.

The usual split twin bill takes place Saturday with Monday's holiday attraction starting at 1.30.

ROCKS HOST PILS IN BATTLE FOR BOXLA LEAD

8 Victoria Daily Times FRIDAY, MAY 15, 1953

Pils Surprised By Salmonacs

First place, the defense and pursuit of same, will be the reigning motive tonight when Victoria Shamrocks host Vancouver Pilseners in an Intercity Lacrosse League game at Memorial Arena at 8.30.

The league-leading Rocks will be out to protect their one-point edge over the Pils, who in turn will be most anxious to unseat the Rocks.

Irish coach Red McMillan plans two line-up changes. Norm Coates, who injured his foot Wednesday night against PNE Indians, will be replaced by Mel Davison, up from senior B ranks. Al Gill will work on the third forward line in place of Duff McCaghey.

One Local Plankster In Island Title Meet

The long week-end holiday will be a big one for local sailors as the Vancouver Island championships take place at Forbidden Plateau Sunday and Monday.

So far, the only entry from Victoria is Toni Lamprochi, who by past records should finish well up in the lead.

In practically every ski club there is a hardy breed of man (or woman) who is more mountaineer than skier, and it seems to be no exception. You'll find this species up on the higher reaches of Mt. Hall in the Brenton area these Sundays, hiking up into the last of the accessible snow areas.
Week-end trips are now being devoted to work parties and the call is again going out for willing hands, so if you can spare a few week-ends get in touch with Jack McCall, G 1550.
The spring wind-up dance which closes the ski season on May 22 will be held in Kings Road Hall. Tickets are now on sale at Wilson & Lenfestey, the Indian Craft Shop and from executive members. The next general meeting will be held next Thursday in the Newstead Hall. Spring work parties will be the main topic of discussion.

Colwood Golf

Mrs. T. A. P. Jackson won the silver division of the monthly medal competition at Colwood Golf Club Thursday. Salmonacs held Pilseners to a 1-1 tie in the first quarter but were outscored 6-3 in the second. The teams split four goals in the third and then Salmonacs, with the veterans leading the way, scored four goals in the fourth to send the game into overtime.

UTILITY SOFTBALL

Hurling a neat two-hitter and slamming a two-run homer, K. Sturrock single handedly led Mc and Mc to a 2-0 Utility League victory over Star Weekly Thursday night at Macdonald Park.

Little Leaguers Set For Sunday's Openers

Victoria's newest sport venture, Little League baseball, gets under way Sunday with all the pomp and color of a major league opener.

Two six-inning games will officially open the league schedule for the four-member teams. Gyros will meet North Kiwanis in the first game of the twin bill and Odell's take on Rotary in the second half.

Honored guests will be presidents of the four service clubs sponsoring teams in the league and Junior Chamber of Commerce president Gordon Carter. Representing the league itself will be committee chairman Jim Nichol.

Lorne Buchanan and Art Dawe will represent the Victoria Amateur Baseball Association and Doug Fletcher will appear on behalf of the Greater Victoria Sports Council.

Baseball fans and a great friend of all youngsters, Rev. William Hills, will deliver a pre-game address.

Probably the most important guests of all from the youngsters' viewpoint, will be Coe Garriott and Reg Patterson of the Victoria Tyees and Harvey Stearns of the Vancouver Caplans.

League schedule follows:

May 17-1:30 p.m. Gyros vs. North Kiwanis
May 18-2:30 p.m. Odell's vs. Rotary

SERVANTS, ADANACS IN DUAL CUP GAMES

Civil Service and Adanacs of the Victoria and District Football Association will meet Saturday in a replay of the McGavin Cup final at Macdonald Park at 2:30.

The same two teams met in the final in November but the game was called because of rain shortly before half time.

All proceeds from the game will go to the injured players' fund.

Civil Service are recent Province Cup semi-finalists, while Adanacs won the Jackson Cup last Sunday.

The same two clubs will tangle Monday night at 6:30 for the Price Cup, a competition for the top three teams in the league. The other club is Esquimalt.

Settlement Reached In Race Track Dispute

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Hollywood Turf Club and buyers' union have finally reached a settlement Thursday in their purse money row.

Racing is scheduled to start Saturday after a four-day shutdown at Inglewood track.

Compromise came after a stormy session here before the California Horse Racing Board.

Under the new plan, applicable only to the Hollywood meeting, the track will pay out purse money from the pari-mutual handle on a 50-50 basis.

The estimated purse money will total $2,820,000.

This was below the $3,001,000 demanded by the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association on a basis of 40 per cent of the track's share of the pari-mutual handle.

The amount also was an increase from the $2,600,000 the track had agreed to prior to Thursday, and a still further increase from the $2,730,000 it consented to pay at the start of Thursday's hearing.

The formula means that the track will pay 4 per cent of the first $10,000,000 handle, 3 per cent of the second $10,000,000, and 2.65 per cent over $20,000,000.

Minor Soccer Replay Billed

Eagles and Shepherd's Dairy will have a replay Saturday of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association's division five championship.

The two contenders battled to a 1-1 stalemate Wednesday night after two 10-minute overtime periods and two five-minute extra frames, all of which failed to break the tie between the clubs.

Norman Hines gave Eagles an early lead, opening the scoring after just two minutes of play. However, Shepherd's Dairy tied the score through Ricky Ferguson, who converted a penalty kick in the second half.

After the four extra periods, coaches of both teams agreed to the replay Saturday at Heywood Avenue at 1.

Vancouver Preps for Cup Tennis

VANCOUVER (CP)—Officials of the Vancouver Lawn Tennis Club are bustling about their courts with tape measures making sure they can meet all requirements for the American zone Davis Cup matches to be played here this summer.

Official confirmation that this city will play host to the U.S.-Japan matches July 9-11 came in a telegram from Alrick Mann, chairman of the U.S. Davis Cup committee to Victor Denny, president of the Pacific Northwest Tennis Association.

The Japanese team has decided it would rather play on the Vancouver club's grass courts than at Seattle. Vancouver was chosen as alternative site because it is a member of the PNWTA, the only Canadian city represented in a U.S. tennis association.

Hurried measurement at the club allayed earlier fears that the courts would be too short to meet regulations.

"We're just going to make the necessary 20-foot clearance from the baselines and no more," an official said.

The club expects to be able to provide seating capacity for 2,000 at the matches.

"Vancouver has the best grass courts and spectator facilities in the northwest, and we are delighted that your city will host this Davis Cup round," Denny said in his announcement.

The switch in venues marks the first time that Canada, or any other country outside the United States has played host to a sports classic traditionally reserved for play in U.S. territory.

ELIZABETH the Queen

By Marion Crawford
Former Governess to Her Majesty

The intimate biography of Queen Elizabeth, written by her good friend and former governess Marion Crawford, appears exclusively in the Victoria Daily Times in 26 chapters. Out of her 17 years of close association with the royal family "Crawford" has previously published "The Little Princess" and "Mother and Queen: The Story of Queen Mary."

XI.

Friends often ask me how things are arranged at Buckingham Palace. Is there someone for every job that has to be done? Indeed there is.

One day Princess Elizabeth came to me very worried because she had been kept awake most of the night by the scrapping and scratching of a mouse.

"I'll send for the Vermin Man," I said.

"Oh, Crawford, do you have to? Couldn't we just catch it ourselves," she said, "and then let it loose in the garden? I'm sure it doesn't mean any harm."

I am not afraid of mice. But I did not welcome the prospect of spending half the night on my knees coaxing a mouse into a bag and then smuggling it out into the garden.

CALL FOR EXPERT

"I think we'd better get expert advice," I said. "He knows how to do it better than we do."

The Lord Chamberlain's Office publishes a little book titled, "Offices and Addresses of Their Majesties' Households and Officers of State and other Royal Households."

It is known in the Palace as the Green Book, and contains, as it says, the names and addresses of all who work in or are connected with the Royal houses.

It is a useful volume, because one can turn in a second to the appropriate person to solve any problem.

There in the front is a list of the Cabinet, followed by a list of Ministers not in the Cabinet. Then comes a detailed list of the Royal Household, starting off in alphabetical order with the Aides de Camp, First and Principal Naval—through to Keepers of the King's Archives, Resident Factor at Balmoral, Clerk of the Closet, Equerries, Extra Equerries, Gentlemen Ushers and so on for 72 pages.

But there are several people who attend the Household whose names do not figure in the Green Book. The Vermin Man is one.

CONSTANT GUARD

Like most old buildings with many cupboards and corridors, Buckingham Palace is on constant guard against mice. If you thought you had heard one, all you had to do was summon the Vermin Man and he would undertake to rid your room of the pest.

I told the footman that we wanted to see the Vermin Man and would he please ask him to come to Princess Elizabeth's rooms.

At 2.30 exactly there came a knock on the door and the man appeared, carrying his tools in a large bag.

He inspected the floorboards and wainscot and said he saw definite evidence of a mouse being there. Then he brought out his traps and asked the Princess which she preferred.

One was the kind with a spring clip which is released when the mouse tries to get the piece of cheese it carries as bait.

The other was what he called the Treacle Trap. It was built on a piece of wood about a foot square covered with a sticky mess of glue-like substance surrounding a little platform on which was some food flavored with aniseed.

Apparently aniseed is as irresistible to mice as it is to dogs. "The mouse is lured by the smell," the man explained. "It tries to get to the aniseed, and is caught in the treacle."

"What happens after that?" asked Princess Elizabeth.

"It is trapped and dies through exhaustion in trying to get away," the man said.

SHUDDER INDUCED

I saw the Princess shudder and knew that the thought of the little creature fighting for its life would torture her.

"I'll have the other sort," she said, without comment.

It is hard for a sensitive person whose feelings are a barometer upon which other people's hard-luck stories play to keep their sympathetic approach.

Mothers would often write to Princess Elizabeth appealing to her to get their sons out of jail. "He has so little and you have so much..."

And occasionally would come graver appeals for her to save a man sentenced to death. Always these letters would grieve her deeply.

She would try to understand why people committed crimes, and even when that was beyond her comprehension, still keep her sympathy for them.

"They don't know what they're doing," she would say.

Charged With Murder

BRANDON (CP)—Pte. Reginald John Finn, 24, formerly of Ireland, was remanded without plea Thursday on a charge of murder. He will appear for preliminary hearing May 21.

Finn was arrested and charged after the stabbing death of L. Cpl. A. W. Smith, 29, of Toronto, in a Camp Shilo barracks brawl.

Dolan Predicts Record Tourist Year

TORONTO (BUP)—Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, believes Canada will have the biggest tourist business in history this year.

But he warned that the tourist trade can never be a success until Canadians stop "aping" U.S. customs. He told the Canadian Public Relations Society Thursday that the best thing Canadians can do to promote tourism is to be themselves.

Dolan based his prediction for a huge increase in tourist trade on the 50 per cent increase in inquiries at the travel bureau. Last year's tourist take for the country was about $300,000,000, some 10 per cent over 1951.

The Toronto meeting marked the inauguration of the Canadian Public Relations Society formed from the Montreal and Toronto associations. James Nicol of Montreal won the society's trophy for last year's biggest contribution to the profession.

City Will Try Again For Art Centre Help

City of Victoria will make another attempt to interest outside municipalities in participating jointly in financial aid to Greater Victoria Arts Centre.

The move was approved unanimously in the face of city solicitor Arthur Patton's report that Esquimalt and Saanich were not interested and Oak Bay would participate only if the others did.

Mr. Patton said Victoria would be left "holding the bag."

"And I don't want the ratepayers stuck and all the other municipalities using the centre," interjected Mayor Claude Harrison.

WAY CAN BE FOUND

Ald. Skillings moved further negotiations on grounds that "if the principle is right and the heart willing a way can be found to overcome legal impediments."

He reminded council that it was the city which "threw up legal rights" issues which he said resulted in non-co-operation by other municipalities.

Debate arose over a request from the centre that the city look after the grounds as it agreed to do in Sept., 1951.

Ald. Skillings urged immediate action, particularly in view of the tourist season approaching. He was surprised that other taxpayers near the 1040 Moss Street centre had not complained about the grounds up to now.

"Since your inauguration we've not shown good faith," he told Mayor Claude Harrison.

"Taxes have not been paid for 1952 and there is no intention of paying them in '53. We are going to be faced with three years' delinquency in taxes and are going to have to take over the centre."

PUBLIC INTERESTED

Ald. Skillings said public opinion was aroused over the two-year controversy, since council first agreed to accept title to the centre. "The city is morally obligated," agreed Ald. William Pinfold. "It was this council that accepted the proposal at the time."

The proposal included upkeep of grounds.

Ald. Robert Macmillan protested any aid, stating the centre was a private organization and should not be "subsidized."

He argued if the centre could not "keep going" financially it should "keep out of business."

The same applied to professional baseball here, he said.

Ald. Skillings said while the organization was a private one in "the legal sense" it was doing fine community work.

Ald. Dowell suggested grounds be maintained in the interim while the inter-municipal committee discusses the whole picture.

This fell through however when Mr. Patton said the alderman concerned could be held personally liable for the cost as it is on "private property."

'RESTRAINT OF TRADE'

Half-Day Closing Rule by Petition Scored

Closure of all firms in one line of business on any given afternoon on petition of 75 per cent of those in the business was termed "a movement toward restraint of trade" at City Council meeting Thursday.

Ald. Waldo Skillings made the observation on being advised by City Solicitor Arthur Patton that the required number of persons had signed a petition to close all lumber retail yards at 12 noon Saturday.

Under the existing by-law, the city must put the change into effect within 60 days if 75 per cent of the persons in a given line of business request it.

Victoria Retail Lumber Yard and 12 others, being 13 of 17 eligible to sign a petition, requested the change.

Council decided to hold a public hearing at the next council meeting to afford those who did not sign to appear.

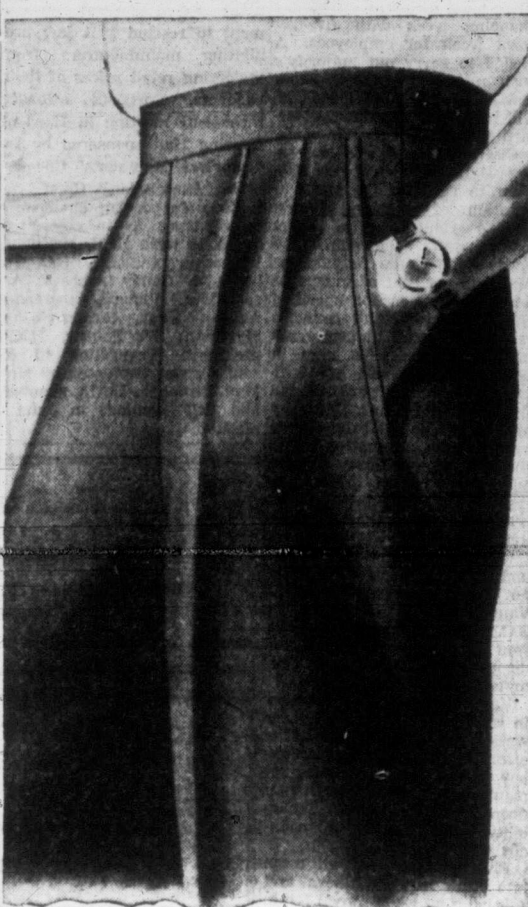

"If any firm wants to stay open, it is unfair of council to pass a by-law prohibiting it," Ald. Skillings contended.

Both Mayor Claude Harrison and Ald. Brent Murdoch warned that Victoria was losing business to outside municipalities.

The mayor referred especially to Wednesday afternoon closing.

"The whole thing should be aired," said the mayor.

The Soldier Apprentice is taught to look after himself and to get along with others. As a soldier he learns to care for his weapons and to march smartly. Out of the training emerges pride in personal accomplishment and in his unit.

Sports are extremely important in the training of the Soldier Apprentice. Excellent equipment and supervisory coaches help to encourage sports activity. The healthy and vigorous atmosphere fosters a fine feeling of friendship and comradeship among the boys.

FOR YOUNG MEN OF 16 The way to a fine future

The Canadian Army's Soldier Apprentice Plan is the answer for many young men 16 years of age seeking a job with a future. This plan offers a combination of:

- thorough trades training in one of 16 trades.
- academic training—in such subjects as physics, chemistry, algebra, English.
- military training—the basic training of the Canadian Soldier.

Soldier Apprentices live in separate wings under the supervision of selected military and civilian teachers. A carefully balanced programme brings out the best in these young men. Learning and living with other young Canadians stimulates healthy and happy comradeship, as well as pride in their units.

Soldier Apprentices are eligible for all Army benefits, pensions and the 30 days annual leave. They receive half pay while 16 and full pay upon reaching their 17th birthday.

The young man who is interested in the happy, healthy and purposeful life of the Soldier Apprentice should investigate immediately.

The coupon below will bring you full details without any obligation.

New Long-Lasting Oil May Stay In Crankcase for 7,000 Miles

OTTAWA (CP)—A new National Research Council discovery may boost the life of your car's lubricating oil many times—and prolong the life of the engine, too.

Brainchild of two research council scientists, the discovery may help cut driving expenses. Instead of changing every 1,000 miles, you may be able to keep old oil in the crankcase for 7,000 miles or more.

The two scientists are also developing a new sand-based, high-temperature, water-repelling grease that may be of particular value to military trucks and jet planes and high-speed factory machines.

The council, in announcing the oil discovery Thursday said the secret is in the insertion of the right amount of certain chemicals or metals into the oil stream, thus braking the oxidation that gradually destroys the properties of ordinary hydrocarbon oil.

Scientists said organic acids which increase this oxidation also are the villains that eat into the engine's parts.

After years of research, the two scientists—Dr. I. E. Pudington and Dr. A. F. Sirriani—found that the chemical villains can be hit hard by adding lithium, sodium, potassium, magnesium, or their salts and oxides.

A piece of the required metal could be attached inside the oil plug, or the protective material could be built into the oil filter,

Ontario Lad Killed By Train on Trestle

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A three-year-old London boy, Robert Powers, was killed under the wheels of a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train Thursday while his brother, David, four, clung inches from death on a girder 50 feet above the Thames River on the CPR bridge here. The two young sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Powers were playing on the track in the centre of the bridge when the train trapped them on the span.

No Blame Fixed by Inquest on Duncan Death

DUNCAN—A coroner's jury Thursday fixed no blame in the death of Eric Lindstrom, 45, who died Sunday in hospital following a street fight Saturday night.

Its verdict after a four and one-half-hour inquest was that Lindstrom came to his death "as a result of a fall or falls causing a fracture of the skull, hemorrhage and contusion of the brain."

Frank Homeniuk, 37, Duncan boom man, will appear in police court Tuesday at 10.30 a.m. for a preliminary hearing on a charge of murder arising out of Lindstrom's death.

Evidence linking Homeniuk with the case is his alleged admission to a police officer that he "must have been the one who struck Lindstrom."

Events leading up to the fatality apparently began at a dance hall where, according to testimony of Thomas Nicol, Lindstrom was bothering Mrs. Homeniuk while dancing with her.

Nicol said he and Homeniuk escorted Lindstrom to the door, where Lindstrom jerked himself free of the two men, stumbled on a step, then struck his head as he fell heavily to a cement floor.

A taxi dispatcher and taxi who saw the alleged assault on Lindstrom on Station Street one-half hour later, could not identify Homeniuk as the man they said they saw strike Lindstrom then run from the scene to his car.

Mr. Nicol had testified that when he was restraining Homeniuk from following Lindstrom after his ejection from the dance hall and subsequent fall, Homeniuk had said "I don't want to fight. I know the man. I just want to talk to him."

Man's Death Spurs Probe of Ont. Water

THAMESVILLE, Ont. (BUP)—Several residents were boiling their drinking water today while health officers analyzed the water supply for possible traces of typhoid virus.

A special town council meeting ordered the test after the death of Clare Skinner, 50, the first typhoid victim here in years. He died Tuesday night after three weeks' illness. Health officials said they had no idea where he picked up the infection.

Say Good-Bye—Not Au Revoir

Best wishes for her last voyage were extended to Aorangi's Capt. William Whitefield by Mayor Claude Harrison (left) and George Warren, publicity commissioner, when the Canadian-Australasian liner made her final visit to Port of Victoria Wednesday evening. Mr. Warren was member of the welcoming committee which greeted the ship here on her maiden voyage in 1925. Among other long-time friends of the liner who went aboard to say goodbye was "Cap'n Charlie" Harris, 86-year-old retired pilot (inset), who guided Aorangi in from Race Rocks on her first voyage. (Times Photo.)

Liner Aorangi's Last Passage May End Colorful Pacific Era

By MONTE ROBERTS
Times Marine Reporter

Several hundred Victorians who visited the waterfront Wednesday evening to say farewell to RMS Aorangi almost certainly saw the last trans-Pacific passenger liner ever to visit this port.

Orient Lines of London plan two experimental voyages, London-Sidney-B.C. and return in 1954—but Victoria will not be a port of call.

This statement was made by Capt. William Whitefield, master of Aorangi, to Mayor Claude Harrison and Publicity Commissioner George I. Warren aboard the Canadian-Australasian liner at Ogden Point Wednesday.

"It is economically unfeasible for a large liner to call at this port," he said. "Cargo and passenger offerings do not justify the cost—nor the risk."

"There is a definite risk every time you bring a big ship in here," he added. "Port of Victoria does not have adequate facilities for a liner the size of Oronsay (25,000 tons), which Orient Lines plan to use on the run."

Aorangi, with the assistance of two tugs, took nearly 40 minutes to dock Wednesday in a light cross-wind. "The smallest miscalculation or accident could result in several thousand pounds damage to the ship," said Capt. Whitefield.

Shipbreakers in Scotland or England will most likely get Aorangi, her long-time master said. He hopes to command her on her final voyage from Australia to U.K., then take over the 7,000-ton freighter Waitemata, owned by Union

Steamship Co. of New Zealand.

Waitemata, a Park ship built by Burrard Drydock in 1914, is at Ogden Point today, lifting lumber for the Antipodes. She is a frequent visitor to this port.

Capt. Whitefield, who has spent 45 years at sea, will retire in June, 1954. Asked what he intended to do, he grinned "What do all sailors do? They go farming."

Many of Aorangi's oldest friends were down to see her off, including Major A. H.

of Mount Newton, who made the maiden voyage from Southampton to Victoria in 1925: "Cap'n Charlie" Harris, 86, who was her pilot on the first visit to Victoria harbor; Fred Snelling, longshoreman who worked her at the Outer Wharf on her first voyage; and scores of Victorians who had happy memories of voyages in the ship.

Cars still lined Dallas Road at dusk, as the big ship's friends strained their eyes to watch her hull down on the horizon.

Court Allows Guest Drinks In Clubroom

Legion Wins Appeal, $1,000 Fine Refund

B.C. Court of Appeal has established the right of Legion branches, operating under club licenses, to serve drinks to non-members.

The court, in a majority decision by Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson and Mr. Justice H. I. Bird handed down today, has set aside conviction of Kelowna Legion branch No. 25 for having served beer to three men who went to the club without being accompanied by a member.

Mr. Justice Sydney Smith dissented.

The Legion was fined $1,000 on conviction. This fine will be refunded.

Legion branches operating under club licenses, as distinguished from those which operate under veterans' beer licenses, it was recognized, had the right to serve members and their guests, but the question before the court was could they serve "guests" alone.

LONG COURT FIGHT

Before coming to B.C. Court of Appeal, the Kelowna Legion branch appealed at County Court level and was unsuccessful in its attempt to have the magistrate's conviction set aside.

T. G. Norris, Q.C., acted for the club during Appeal Court proceedings, while Lloyd G. McKenzie, appeared for the Crown.

Legions operating under veterans' beer licenses are still restricted to serve members only. There is no regulation, however, which says a member cannot order two beers and then turn around and give one to a guest.

Dukowski to Plead For Sport Tax Cut

City Council will hear arena manager Joe Dukowski May 28 on a request that organizations sponsoring amateur sports be exempt from payment of the 17 1/2 per cent amusement tax now charged at the arena.

On Mr. Dukowski's request, the executive committee recommended that a resolution be sent the UBCM asking them to bring pressure to bear on the minister of finance to amend the provincial amusement tax act.

Ald. Waldo Skillings objected. He said sports like lacrosse were "amateur in name only."

"They split the melon up at the end of the year," he said.

WINNER of a National Research Council bursary of $600 and the Lefevre Gold Medal and chemistry scholarship valued at $150, Christina Janet Cameron was listed Thursday as one of UBC's prize-winning scholars in graduation results. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Colin Cameron, 2647 Mt. Stephen Avenue. Her father is one of the CCF candidates in Victoria.

Docks Can't Accommodate Sixth Vessel

All berths at Ogden Point are occupied today, with five ships working and a sixth lying at anchor in Royal Roads, awaiting space.

Three freighters are lifting lumber, one is discharging general cargo, and one is loading barley at the grain elevator.

The general cargo ship is Donaldson Line's Ss. Norwegian, with more than 300 tons of steel pipe, machinery and English china. Biggest single item in her cargo is a seven-ton "guillotine" metal-cutter, consigned to HMC Dockyard.

Ss. Telemor is loading 2,000 tons of barley for South Korea, while Ss. Ariake Maru waits in Royal Roads to pour a full cargo of grain at the elevator after Telemor sails.

Ss. Waitemata, Blankvann, and Triepke are lifting lumber, Waitemata is for the Antipodes, the other two for U.K.

SHIP FOR SALE

Donaldson Line's Norwegian is in port of Victoria for the first—and most likely the last—time. She is 32 years old, and is up for sale.

Norwegian was built in Dundee as Ss. Caledon, in 1921, and for the past several years has served Donaldson on the Montreal-St. John-U.K. run.

Officers believe the ship is on her last voyage, and that she is headed for the "big hammer" of the shipbreakers.

She is scheduled to sail for Vancouver, where she will discharge the balance of her cargo, Saturday afternoon. Her owners have secured a grain carrier for the return trip to England.

Bad Drivers Banned From B.C. Highways

Radio Stations Plan to Form TV Firm Here

May Be Operating By Next Summer

Radio stations CJVI and CKDA will form a separate company for the joint operation of a station here, W. M. Guild, general manager of CJVI, announced today.

"We are now in the process of discussing the financial structure of the company," Mr. Guild said.

The two Victoria stations will maintain their separate identities in the present broadcasting field.

"In the TV field only will we operate as a joint venture."

OPERATING NEXT YEAR

Victoria could have TV by the summer of 1954 if the company's application to the CBC for TV is approved this fall, Mr. Guild said.

Representatives of the two stations explored likely sites and have asked the city for permission to lease the highest spot on Mount Douglas, Mr. Guild added.

"Now we have to find the money."

APPROVE PLANS

City council Thursday unanimously agreed to ask the provincial government to permit use of a site on Mount Douglas for TV. Plans call for construction of a tower and a concrete building to house equipment.

Tentative plans involve erection of a one-story building designed so that people of Victoria and visitors may view actual television programs in operation.

New Zoning By-Law Ready Next Month

The city's new zoning by-law will be presented to City Council early in June, the Victoria Town Planning Commission advised at its meeting in City Hall Thursday night.

Limitation of the height of buildings in the city and provision of off-street parking by any new commercial and other public buildings are included.

The new by-law which has been in the making by the town planning commission for two years, is designed to prevent spot zoning throughout the city. Aim is to make Victoria a model city in the future, with regard to planning.

Education, Not Prosecution, Guide In Motor Vehicle Control Scheme

Bad drivers will be ruled off the highway under a new driver education program, based on flexible point system, which started functioning in British Columbia May 1.

The announcement was made Thursday by Attorney-General Robert Bonner who said 19 motorists already have lost their licenses temporarily, and 400 "repeaters" have been sent warning letters.

The system is based along the lines of the point system in Manitoba but will be more flexible.

Under the Motor Vehicle Act, the superintendent of motor vehicles has had the power for some years under Section 88 to suspend the licenses of bad drivers.

This power has been used conservatively, but under the new system it will be exercised more extensively.

Provision will be made for a driver to appeal a suspension to the County Court.

ELASTIC SYSTEM

The system has been established under a new "Drivers' Education Division." This department is combining through files to pick out the drivers who are involved in successive accidents.

"It is similar, but more elastic than Manitoba's point system," explained Superintendent George Lindsay. "Drivers here won't be ruled off the road for life, but their licenses will be suspended for indefinite periods."

The number of points needed to take a driver off the road will not be hard and fast, and will not be made public. The point system is actually for the inner workings of the plan.

A driver will not be suddenly taken off the road. He will be called in for examination and consultation with other motor vehicle branch officials who will discuss his driving record with him.

The driver will be given advice, and warned that further infractions will result in suspension of his license.

"We are only supplementing the courts. We're not trying to take over," Mr. Lindsay stressed. "We won't interfere with the courts, either."

Final decision on whether a motorist loses his license will rest with the superintendent.

"It's an elastic system with the emphasis on education, not punishment," said Mr. Lindsay. "We're aiming at the repeaters."

Under the new system a driver may have his license suspended by the superintendent even though he has escaped court convictions. It would catch the thousands of drivers who break minor traffic laws and never appear in court, paying their fines directly to the police.

Judgment Reserved in Store Purchase Suit

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane reserved judgment at the conclusion Thursday of a Supreme Court trial arising out of sale in October, 1952, of Langford Lake Store.

Mrs. Alice May Dobson and her daughter, Miss Lillian Grace Overton, are claiming $3,132 from William H. Okell, which they say is owing them under terms of an agreement for sale entered in connection with their real estate dealings.

POLITICIANS MISS HAY

The city recently advised the province it would no longer maintain the embankment green, which is provincial land. The province offered the city $400 for the job but the city turned it down.

"Maybe the parks department didn't want to take money from the government," quipped Ald. William Pinfold. Later, he pointed out that the city "accepted without comment an offer" from John Belts to use his copyright slogan, "Victoria City of Gardens."

Ald. Frank Mulliner wanted the "Social Credit members of council to take it up with their government."

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Robber's Digest, or, it's okay to steal stuff as long as you admit you're stealing stuff:

An oil man in Texas, who needed money to drill a well, advertised for 1,000 investors with $100 each. He guaranteed unconditionally that each would get his money back in 10 years, and if the well came in, they would share in the profits.

Within a short time, the required $100,000 poured in through the mails.

This arouses the interest—and suspicion—of postal authorities, who suspected something phony. But after a thorough investigation, they could find no basis for complaint.

As each $100 investment came in, the oil man spent $75 on a U.S. government bond, with a 10-year maturity value of $100. Then he mailed the bond to the investor.

Having spent $75,000 for the bonds, he had $25,000 in cash with which to drill the well.

In 1917, a man named R. E. Hayne wrote a glowing tribute to the nickel. It is calculated to bring tears to your eyes:

Oh here's to the nickel so shiny and bright,
It serves me so often, from morning to night.
It takes me to business, or blackens my shoes,
It pays for a smoke, or provides me with news.
When I go to the movies, it takes me inside,
If I travel by jitney, it pays for the ride.
It's a tip for the waiter, the barber or kid,
Who brushes my clothes, then hands me my lid.
It quenches my thirst, or it buys me a stew,
It sure beats the deuce what a nickel will do.
So here's to the nickel, let loud praises swell,
To this wonderful coin, which has served me so well.

If Mr. Hayne were around today, he could console himself with the knowledge that the nickel will still operate a parking meter.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

"The Conquest of Fear" is the subject of a talk to be given at a public meeting of the Theosophical Society on Sunday at 8 p.m. at 804 Government St. Speaker will be John Barnes, president of the Theosophical Society in Vancouver.

A group of 35 Seattle Rotarians and their wives were guests of the Victoria Rotary at an Empress luncheon Thursday. Movies of Puget Sound cruises shown by one of the visitors comprised the entertainment of the meeting.

Arnold James Eaton, RGN, was fined $10 in city police court today for breaking a window at the home of George Joe Fan Tan Alley. Eaton said the window was broken during a scuffle.

Life membership in the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion will be awarded Robert Knight in a ceremony there Tuesday.

Past dominion president of the legion, Gen. W. W. Foster will make the presentation. Given for long and faithful service, the life membership will be the first in this branch.

A mock radio show will be presented at the Sir James Douglas auditorium Friday at 8 p.m. by the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Young Peoples' Society.

A "gay nineties" fashion show and comic old time songs will be featured. Soloists will be Miss Kay Paulin and Jim Matheson. The Masonic Quartet will also be heard. Proceeds go to the Young Peoples' building fund.

Found guilty of dangerous driving, Charles W. Cooper, 503 Maculay, was fined $50 in city police court today and in default seven days. Magistrate H. C. Hall also canceled his drivers' license for three months.

WIND MAY BRING SUNSHINE BACK

Clouds that moved over the city Tuesday afternoon and have stubbornly refused to move, should be on their way out late today, according to the weatherman.

"We are expecting clear skies tonight—and sunshine Saturday," he said, but it will be cloudy again late Saturday and Sunday.

Winds will be light, and temperatures will range between 48 and 62 degrees.

Charge To Be Laid In Theft Of Safe Here

Magistrate H. C. Hall said today a charge of breaking and entering the Salvation Army, Pandora Avenue, and theft, will be read against Vernon Reid, no fixed address, in city police court next Wednesday.

The charge, arising out of the theft in January of a safe containing a cheque over the value of $1,000, has been laid against the accused, but has not yet been read against him in court.

Reid was charged in court today with perjury in connection with a recent court case dealing with a complaint taken under the "Deserted Wives and Children's Maintenance Act."

He is alleged to have testified that a young woman, Lois Browne, paid the rent for premises in Macmillan's Auto Court knowing this to be untrue.

THREE MONTHS' TERM

Lois Browne, who is mentioned in the case, was sentenced to three months jail for forgery Thursday.

The perjury charge has been remanded until next Wednesday for preliminary inquiry.

The magistrate at the same time withdrew a charge against Reid of counselling Lois Browne to commit forgery. The charge was withdrawn at the request of city prosecutor Allan Bigelow.

"I'm withdrawing this charge on the understanding that it can be laid against the accused at some later date," said the magistrate.

BROTHER'S BULLET STOPPED CHARGE, CLAIM

Court Ponders Identity of Bull, Now Beef

BY DAVE STOCK

Because one Hereford bull looks very much like any other Hereford bull, a perplexing problem was before B.C. Court of Appeal today.

The court is considering an appeal from conviction brought by Charles Davis of Campbell River, who was found guilty last January of having killed a bull belong to William B. Murphy, of Headquarters, Vancouver Island.

St. Luke's Seeks Stage Recruits

A call for 10 recruits for St. Luke's Players went out today. The amateur theatricals group which won honors in the B.C. regional drama festival this spring will sign on applicants at its annual meeting May 26 at 8 p.m. at St. Luke's Hall, Cedar Hill Crossroad.

The group operates at a maximum membership of 50 in order that every member may have a part in a play each year. Applicants do not have to be experienced, providing they have an affection for drama. The group is especially interested in enlisting more young people.

ver Island, with the intention of stealing the carcass for his own use.

Big issue before the court at the moment is: Was it really Murphy's bull that was shot? F. S. Cunliffe, Q.C. defense counsel, says it isn't. He says the bull that was killed belonged to the accused, Davis.

J. A. Byers, Crown counsel, says Davis never had a bull; that the shot bull, whose hide was exhibited in lower court, was undoubtedly the bull of Farmer Murphy.

Mr. Byers based his argument on identification of the hide by Mr. Murphy in lower court. But that identification, says Mr. Cunliffe, is no identification at all.

"The marking described were typical of any Hereford," Mr. Cunliffe said. "It was no more identification than it would be if a man described a negro by saying he had dark skin and curly, black hair."

One thing that hasn't been questioned is the fact that Farmer Murphy's bull disappeared.

At the trial before Judge L. A. Hanna, Farmer Murphy testified:

"He is not at home any more."

"The last time I seen him was in the pasture of my field. . . . He left the pasture to go out with the white-faced cattle, and was never seen again."

Besides arguing that the bull that was shot was his, Davis testified that it was his brother, Norman, who actually shot the critter.

And the reason: It came charging out of the bushes toward his brother, Beatty.

Part of the carcass was to go to yet another brother, Albert.

When convicted in County Court, Davis was ordered to post a $500 bond to keep the peace; pay $300 to Murphy for compensation and pay $100 court costs.

THE CORONATION STORY

Rook Shoots and Lambeth Palace Intrigue Reporter

By RITA MYERS

LONDON—I've spent the past few days in East Riding, Yorkshire, a beautiful part of England at this time of year, with emerald green rolling hills fringed by rosy pink apple blossoms, its clipped hedges sheltering herds of cattle and sheep... also rooks.

This weekend is the season for a rook shoot and in scores of rookeries in East Riding the big black birds (something on the order of a crow) make the early morning raucous with their chatter. The young are sitting on the edge of the nests, just ready to leave... So, it is time to cut the bird population before it takes its heavy toll of garden and field... Tradition has it that if you don't shoot the yearly surplus you will lose your rookery, a vast conglomeration of nests high in the tree tops. (Why you wouldn't want to lose a rookery is another question.)

London, in the meantime, is getting more and more crowded as boats and planes bring the first of the many thousands who will be here for the Coronation... Even London's skyline comes into the picture with a new view indicator erected on the highest point, Primrose Hill, with a panorama carved in relief in solid aluminum. From there you can pick out every landmark.

The first skeleton rehearsal from Palace to Abbey was carried out May 10 for timing, with one from Abbey to Palace scheduled for May 21.

For the order of the Coronation service, which has been published by Novello, a 1953 innovation in the service will be active participation of the congregation. Before the National Anthem, "Old Hundred," with choir, orchestra, fanfare of all available trumpets and voices of all the people in the Abbey will form a fitting climax to the Coronation of Elizabeth II.

My command invitation from Her Majesty included attached information that Abbey guests are invited to go to various buildings in the vicinity, where refreshments will be served following the service. Both House of Lords and House of Commons will be used... this will allow time for clearing of traffic and for cars to be routed to collect passengers. One thing sure, it will be two hours after the Queen leaves the Abbey before traffic will move.

A full-scale rehearsal, with all figures concerned with the actual Coronation, will take place the week before the event. To this will go all accredited members of the press. (The Queen will have a 2½-hour rehearsal, but it is doubtful if she will take part in this.)

Talks With the Archbishop
I visited Lambeth Palace on the wettest day I have ever seen... a proper time to pass the forbidding iron-studded gates into the prison-like stone courtyard. But the smile of Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, who met us in the vast corridor in route to the library, was warm enough... A talk with Mrs. Fisher was chiefly concerned with refugees and supplying considerable information was one of the world officials from Geneva.

British sense of humor finds expression in the suggestions made by the archbishop and his wife for numbers for the new palace limousine. Mrs. F. suggests LPL1 (Lambeth Palace Limousine 1) while the doctor thinks that ABC 99 (199th Archbishop of Canterbury) would be fitting.

Many eating places are turning their customs back to the first Elizabethan era. I expect to dine (banquet would be a better word) at such a restaurant this week, where food, service, waiters, musicians and setting will be early Elizabethan. I understand that in addition to roast peacock, swan, boar's head salad and syllabub, I will also be able to eat roast ox with a two-pronged fork.

CLUB WOMEN'S NEWS

Summer Bazaar—Plans for the annual summer bazaar and tea, in the church hall, June 10, were made at recent meeting of Women's Guild, St. David's-by-the-Sea, Cordova Bay. There will be stalls of needlework, superfluities, plants, home cooking, candy, a treasure hunt, contests and afternoon tea will be served. At the meeting Rev. D. C. M. O'Connell spoke briefly.

Junior Tea—St. David's Junior Branch, Women's Auxiliary, held a tea and sale for mothers and friends in the church hall. A sum of $23.50 was realized. Mrs. F. Wilmot, leader, was assisted by Mrs. C. Keyworth, Mrs. A. Taylor, Mrs. H. Wilmet and Mrs. T. E. Brown. Fifteen members of the auxiliary, wearing the traditional green kerchiefs and armbands, served tea.

Successful Year—Completing its first year of existence, the women's committee of Victoria Choral Society held its annual meeting recently at Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall. The following officers were elected: Mrs. R. Webster, president; Mrs. J. Dunn, vice-president; Mrs. W. Anders, secretary; Mrs. B. Morley, treasurer. Plans were made for a garden party to be held June 27.

League History—Mrs. M. Gardiner read 1952-53 history of Canadian Daughters' League, Assembly No. 5, prepared by historian Mrs. J. Kinsey, at recent meeting of the assembly. Mrs. Gladys Jasper presided and gave a report on Local Council of Women. Arrangements were made for a card party for members and friends, with prizes and refreshments, on May 26, at 8 p.m.; reservations Mrs. Gardiner, G 5148. Mrs. J. Akenhead reported on a visit made to an adopted patient at Veterans' Hospital, and from Mrs. A. Huxtable on sick visit.

Annual Garden Fete
The gardens at "Queenswood House," home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kilgour, will again be scene of the annual garden party of St. George's Guild, which is planned for early July. Stalls will include superfluities, home cooking and flowers. Tea will be served on the lawn. Special attraction will be dances by pupils of Velda Wille and amusements will be provided for young and old.

A sandwich filling particularly good on whole wheat bread is one made with cottage cheese and ground raisins. Another delicious combination is ground raisins, peanut butter and a bit of crisp chopped bacon, with an extra amount of good nutrition.

Unusual Bouquet For Presentation To Queen Elizabeth

A spiritual bouquet, composed of special prayers from members of Oak Bay Catholic Women's League, will be assembled for presentation to Queen Elizabeth II by Mrs. Edna Ryan, at annual membership tea next Wednesday from 3 to 5, in the parish hall, 2060 Haultain Street. The bouquet will be sent to the CWL of Canada national office to be forwarded from there. Mrs. N. R. Boyce, president, with Mrs. D. N. McMillan, secretary, and Mrs. J. D. E. Boyde, treasurer, will receive guests. Mrs. Ryan will arrange floral tea-table and smaller guest tables. Presidents of four local subdivisions have been invited to preside: St. Andrew's Cathedral parish, Mrs. J. Michael; Lake Hill, Mrs. D. P. Hanley; Esquimalt, Mrs. G. R. Guillemaud and Junior Catholic Women's League president, Mrs. C. J. Clarke.

Mrs. A. K. O'Shea will supervise serviettes Mesdames J. J. O'Connor, C. Phillipson, P. Zaluski, J. E. Flanagan, G. R. Boudreau and D. McLellan.

Trio up on Sailor, Beverley Adams, Jo-Ann Aubel and Pat White, and Miss Patricia Jones, at left, have been spending many hours at the riding academy grounds in preparation for the horse show, which will include a number of novelty events. J. Hargreaves, Vancouver horseman, will act as judge.

Brides-Elect Feted by Friends

Honoring the Misses Nancy Robe and Ann Beadnell, two brides-elect of this month, the Family Allowance and Old Age Security staff held a shower recently at the home of Mrs. D. McCutcheon, 311 Gorge Road West. Gifts of a Kenwood blanket and a luncheon set of dishes were presented to the honor guest.

Others present were Mrs. M. Robertson, Mrs. M. Trimble, Mrs. E. MacKenzie, Mrs. M. Pakulak, Mrs. C. Farrell, Mrs. M. Brown, Mrs. E. Young, Mrs. G. Orr, Mrs. McCutcheon, Mrs. L. Barnes, Mrs. H. Liberal Candidate Raps Socreds' Milk Proposal

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Ev Crowley, Liberal candidate for Vancouver East in the June 9 election, claimed Thursday night that the Social Credit milk decontrol proposal might create a milk shortage in the province.

"The Social Credit promises on milk are ridiculous," he charged in a campaign speech here. "If the milk is to be sold cheaper on the city market there are only two sources from which those price cuts can come."

from the worker in the industry or from the farmer himself.

Crowley, who once served a jail term rather than pay poll tax, said "decontrol will knock the props out from under the entire agricultural economy of British Columbia."

"Under this prepared order-in-council it is not conceivable that in the space of a year there will not be enough milk to go around to serve British Columbia's metropolitan areas," he said. "We'll be forced to either import milk and thus pay higher prices to do so . . . or we'll go without."

The Baltimore oriole is an orange and black species of bird which inhabits the southern settled portions of Canada.

(A) "TROUBLE ALONG THE WAY" (Royal): It's a long time between now and the next Academy Award night. About 10 months.

But right now we would like to nominate Mr. Charles Coburn. This venerable gentleman, is an actor. A very fine actor. He's been trying to prove it for years. In "Trouble Along the Way" Warners gave him his opportunity. They gave him his chance in a fine supporting role. Mr. Coburn didn't miff it.

In this simple, warm, pulsating comedy the veteran thespian is a Catholic priest, headmaster of bankrupt little American college. In his naive way he decides a winning football team and its accruing fortune should make his beloved school solvent. To this end he hires one-time football great John Wayne to take over the coaching assignment.

Mr. Wayne, however, who has tumbled down football's path to oblivion, strewn by broken whisky bottles, has his own code of ethics which have little in common with the ethics of the kindly priest.

The codes soon clash when the headmaster prevails upon the cardinal to intervene upon behalf of the bankrupt school by securing for it a list of opponents that are bound to set the turnstile clicking. Coach Wayne, with a very mediocre team under his command, finds himself scheduled against Villanova, Santa Clara, Holy Cross and even mighty Notre Dame.

By hook and by crook—mostly the latter—he has the football greats of the nation enrolling at the tiny college for scholarships and for every other inducement that Priest Coburn, his staff and college wouldn't allow for a moment. If they knew.

In addition to his football problems, Wayne has two or three more. One, his daughter, little Sherry Jackson, who is just about as good a child actor as one is likely to bump into in an acre of child actors; two, his ex-wife, who is trying to win the youngster back just to spite big John; and third, social worker Donna Reed, who does not know which side she is on.

Between Charles Coburn, Sherry Jackson and Wayne "Trouble Along the Way" is developed into one of the best warm-hearted comedies to come to town this year. It is, in turn, gentle, sad and funny, and always very human.

In spite of its undoubted merit, however, "Trouble Along the Way" is playing to half-filled houses.

Why? Only a few years ago this one would have had 'em standing in line in forty below.

What's wrong? Where are we going? Heaven help Hollywood.

Nursing Home By-Law Given Further Hoist

Passage of a by-law to enable the city to turn over $150,000 for the Victoria Nursing Home 104-bed building on Gorge Road was held up at City Council meeting Thursday, pending word from the provincial government.

The city is awaiting information on whether it can apply the funds raised from sale of lands to the Victoria Nursing Home Society, without a vote of the electorate.

City Solicitor Arthur Patton said the matter is in the hands of the Department of Municipal Affairs.

Council heard three letters, two opposing spending the money without a vote of the electorate and one favoring immediate construction of the nursing home addition.

Stanley James, owner of Oak Lodge Private Hospital, urged early action on the building.

He said he saw no "threat of competition" as raised by another private hospital owner.

He stated he had to turn 20 people away in one month because there were no vacant beds. The addition will mean "added service for people needing care," he said.

F. A. Taylor of Manor Private Hospital spoke of city competition and felt funds should not be made available without a vote of the people.

New Zealand's Prime Minister To Visit Ottawa

OTTAWA (BUP)—New Zealand Prime Minister Sidney G. Holland will arrive in Canada next Wednesday after an official visit to Washington.

Holland, who together with his wife is en route to the Coronation, arrived in New York Thursday night from San Francisco.

He will be in Washington early next week to lunch with President Eisenhower.

In Ottawa, the prime minister is expected to be entertained by the cabinet and will consult with Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

Big Show Leader Seeking Fresh Talent in Victoria

Talented Victorians with aspirations to make a mark in the entertainment world will shortly have a chance to try for a spot on Horace Heidt's coast-to-coast radio show.

The well-known orchestra leader, who has made a business of searching out and presenting new, fresh talent, is to present a show at Memorial Arena here Wednesday, June 3.

He's bringing his band and such featured acts as Johnny Standley, of "It's in the Book" fame, and Ralph Sigwald, tenor, who, before joining Heidt's traveling company, was a school janitor. Altogether, there will be 50 in his troupe.

In addition to "name talent" which Heidt employs, he is anxious to feature three good local acts at his arena show, and find someone here who would rate an appearance on his big, weekly network program.

Last time through this way, in September, 1951, Heidt selected Bob Hirst, clarinetist, then 18 and a student at Victoria High School, to make an expense-paid trip to Great Falls, Montana, to perform on his radio show.

Persons wishing to try out for the Heidt program this time are asked to be at radio station CJVT's studios at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, May 27, to audition. Auditions will be given any-

Reds Reported Ready To Trade Oil to Japan

TOKYO (UP)—Russia was reported today to have offered Japan 500,000 tons of oil in the next five years in exchange for Japanese products.

The newspaper Nihon Keizai reported the Soviet government has approached three Japanese firms with offers to barter 100,000 tons of oil per year over the five-year period.

In exchange, the newspaper said, the Russians want Japanese fishing boats, marine repair services, fishing nets, electric wiring and motors.

Carnival Refused Blanchard Street Spot

A move to have the Cavalcade of the West carnival show located on Blanchard Street during Coronation celebrations was defeated by City Council Thursday on advice of the police and fire chiefs.

Greater Victoria Celebrations Association suggested the site for the show, from May 22 to June 2, to provide a downtown location and aid in the holiday atmosphere.

For several years past council has refused the Blanchard location, by the Arena, and offered Victoria West Park as an alternative. This was done again following heated debate.

DANGEROUS SPOT

"It's a dangerous spot for traffic," said Police Chief John Blackstock, when called in for his opinion.

"They use the parking strip on Arena Way for tents. Children can dart out and a motorist hasn't a chance. First thing we know someone will be killed and we'll be criticized."

Fire Chief Frank Brjers said Victoria West was safer from the fire hazard point of view than Blanchard.

Ald. Don Smith fought to have city clerk Frank Hunter, president of the celebrations association heard, but Ald. Waldo Skillings and Ald. Frank Mulliner refused. Such a motion must be unanimous.

"Council set a new low when it refused to hear him," cried Ald. Smith amid objections.

Mr. Hunter and S. J. Hillson, business manager of the show, however, were both invited to speak when it came to financial terms for Victoria West.

Council agreed to waive the usual $100 a day ground rental at the park. The show however will contribute $1,500 to the celebrations association and pay the usual trades license fees, provide insurance and a $500 bond to leave the park in good condition. No ground rental would have been paid on Blanchard.

SAME PRICE SINCE 1888

LONDON (Reuters) — One British firm has not raised its prices once since it started business in 1888. The Associated Automatic Corporation, presenting its 1952 accounts today, added a footnote: "For the last 65 years we have been weighing and entertaining the public for one penny a time."

Israel Asks U.S. For Defense Aid

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion and other Israeli leaders Thursday asked State Secretary Dulles for United States military and economic aid, authoritative sources said.

In top secret talks here in Jerusalem, the Israelis are believed to have emphasized Israel's need to defend itself, rather than the needs of the Middle East as a whole.

Israel is known to distrust any Middle East defense system which would provide the Arab nations with arms with which they might wage a "war of revenge" against Israel.

Roto-Cold

the last word in refrigerators... the new word in refrigeration

Think of it! This newest, most wonderful of all General Electric Refrigerators keeps all your stored foods fresh, longer—thanks to the magic of ROTO-COLD.

A constant, positive flow of chilled air flows from the new "cold-slope" baffle throughout the cabinet. All your stored foods—no matter where they are placed, from top to bottom—are kept fully refrigerated, fully protected at all times.

AUTOMATIC DEFROSTING, OF COURSE

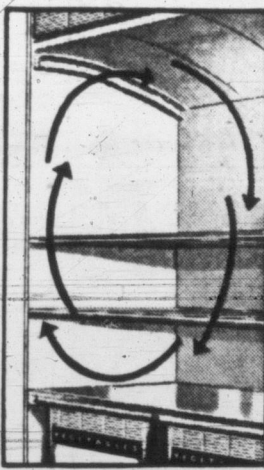

Frost is never allowed to build up. No need to defrost, ever... or employ drip trays.

Check these other features... more space than ever before, new beauty of design, big full-width freezer, roomy Rolla-Drawers. It's the greatest refrigerator-value your money can buy.

Can't you picture this beauty in your kitchen! See it—learn all about G-E ROTO-COLD—today, at your G-E Dealer's. Other new G-E models priced as low as $319.00

HERE'S HOW G-E ROTO-COLD WORKS:

In ordinary refrigerators, temperatures vary as much as 16 degrees from top shelf to bottom. But with G-E Roto-Cold—all parts are uniformly cold. Moist-cold air is circulated inside the refrigerator section to assure proper humidity and constant temperature throughout the cabinet. Fresh foods are kept fresh and appetizing—even uncovered!

Hardening Arteries' Effects Depend on Their Location

A slow stream of letters reaches this column inquiring about hardening of the arteries. Although these blood vessels begin to become less soft and elastic almost from birth onwards, true hardening of the arteries, or arteriosclerosis, as physicians call it, is not usually much of a problem until the middle or later years of life.

What happens to the walls of the arteries is extremely complicated and even today everything that happens and why it occurs is not thoroughly understood. Sometimes the walls of the arteries get a kind of fatty deposit in them, but generally true hardening refers to gradual deposits of calcium.

These deposits do not develop in all the arteries at the same rate. Some arteries are less affected than others. Until a lot of calcium has been deposited, furthermore, the arteries remain fairly elastic, carrying enough blood so that serious difficulties are unlikely.

In some cases the calcium deposits appear to be a result of high blood pressure; in others high blood pressure may be caused by the arteriosclerosis. Because hardening of the arteries is a sign of increasing years, however, the wear and tear of life probably plays a part in the speed in which arteriosclerosis develops.

Disturbances in the secretion of hormones from the internal glands, infections, overeating, are also believed by some to be responsible in certain cases. Disturbances of the kidneys also may enter into the picture.

The symptoms of arteriosclerosis are principally associated with increase in the blood pressure and with disturbances of the circulation to those parts of the body which are directly involved.

If the hardening of the arteries is worse around the heart, angina pectoris may be the result. If it is in the brain, a stroke of apoplexy is a possibility. When the arteries of the legs are seriously involved, cramp-like pains in the legs after walking a few blocks may be the first noticeable sign.

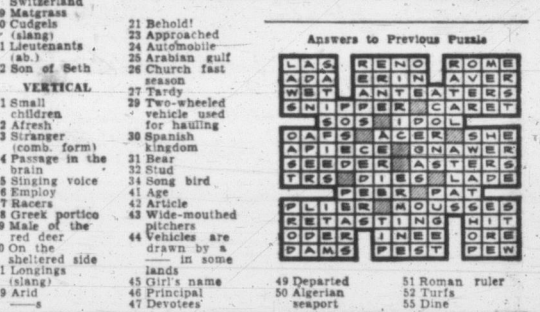

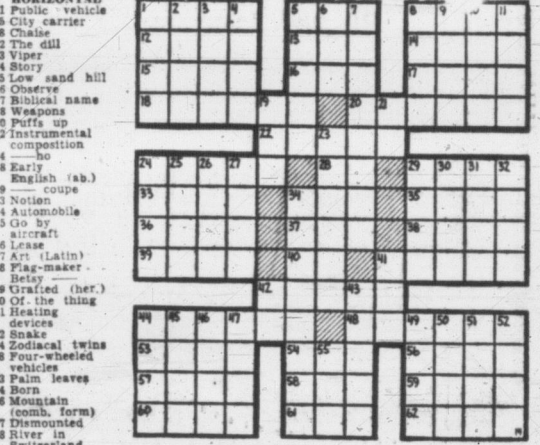

TREATMENTS VARY

There is no single satisfactory treatment for hardening of the arteries. What should be done for this condition depends on which arteries are affected and how bad the condition is. Because of this, it is impossible to outline a treatment which is suitable for all patients with arteriosclerosis.

The outlook for life and health is variable. If only those blood vessels which are located in comparatively unimportant spots are affected, good health may continue for many years.

Because more and more of us are living longer, arteriosclerosis is becoming a constantly more serious problem. Research on it is going forward constantly and eventually some way to prevent or delay the progress of hardening of the arteries should be developed.

The Oswego Canal provides an outlet from Lake Ontario to the Hudson River and New York City.

Auto Lost Wheel, Driver Acquitted

John Lister, 4927 West Saanich Road, driver of a car which lost its left front wheel on a road before coming to a standstill, was found not guilty of careless driving in Saanich police court Thursday. Lister said the wheel came off the car when he was on a curve on the road. He did not apply his brakes for fear the car would turn over, he added.

Three other motorists were fined a total of $85 for speeding over 50 miles per hour. R. O. Margetish, 1308 Hastings Street, was fined $25; Allan P. Crouch, 349 Lampson, $30, and James A. Wilby, 414 Government, $30.

Lloyd Tahoune, 122 Niagara, and Arthur Williams, 670 Battery, were each fined $10 for unlawfully carrying firearms contrary to the Game Act.

"MIRACLE" RESCUE

CALGARY (CP)—Alex Martin, 60-year-old gravel worker, said "I thought I heard the angels singing" after he was freed from burial under tons of sand here Thursday.

Martin was buried for more than a half-hour when other workers filled the hopper he was in.

Rescuers termed Martin's escape a "miracle."

Prison for Combines Chiefs Suggested by Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre), suggested Thursday in the Commons that Canada's combines law should be changed to provide mandatory imprisonment for directors who directly contribute or passively acquiesce in breaking that law.

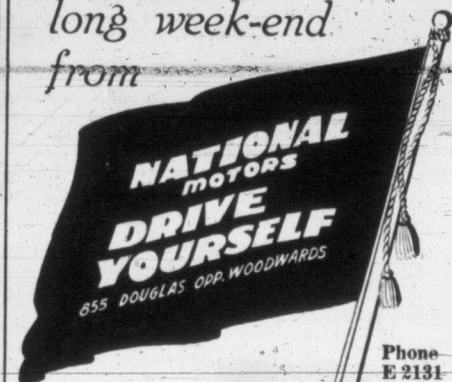

He said present provisions of a fine for the convicted corporation was a "poor substitute" for imprisonment where wrongdoing had been proved. A new committee should study the combines law.

Later Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre), joined Mr. Diefenbaker in urging a plugging of the loophole which prevents prison terms for directors of firms found guilty of breaking the combines law.

REV. AND MRS. F. JOHNSON AND DENNIS

Irish Pastor to Take Over As First United Assistant

By PETE LOUDON

A smiling, red-headed Irish clergyman with a brogue as broad as County Donegal, where he was born, arrived in Victoria Wednesday. He is Rev. Frank Johnson, new assistant minister at First United.

With him from County Monaghan, where he was pastor of a church at Corlee, came his young wife, Elizabeth and their fair "young bucko" Dennis, seven months.

Rev. Johnson is well fitted for his post which will deal in a large part with youth work. He is only 35, has traveled widely, and served during war years as a chaplain in the British paratroops. He saw action in Norway and in Palestine.

Schooled at Poyle College and at Magee College in Londonderry, he took his BA at Trinity College in Dublin, later studying at the Presbyterian College in Belfast. He was ordained in Londonderry in 1945.

Mrs. Johnson saw war service too. She served in the WAAF in Southern England through-out the "blitz."

Young Dennis may turn out to be a navy man, however. He was the only member of the family who did not suffer during the sea voyage to New York.

Rev. Johnson remarked today that the Protestant population of Eire is dropping. This was due, he said, not only to the "depressed state of the land" but to the departure of many Irish to this continent.

Rev. Johnson will be introduced by Rev. Moir A. J. Waters to the First United congregation on Sunday, when he will be in the pulpit at both morning and evening services. The morning service will be broadcast.

Thrill-Killer of 1920's, Leopold Loses Freedom Bid

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Nathan Leopold, notorious "thrill-killer" of the 1920's, who became a model prisoner and medical guinea pig, lost his bid for freedom Thursday.

The Illinois parole and pardon board denied his application for a parole from Stateville Penitentiary in an action that could keep him behind bars at least until 1965.

Victor I. Knowles, chairman of the board, told newspapermen that "the board doesn't think he's the right type of man to go into society." He said that the sentencing judge and Clarence Darrow, Leopold's own lawyer, had recommended that he never be paroled.

Leopold, 48, is serving life and an 85-year prison term—reduced from 99 years for special prison service he rendered—for the brutal slaying of 14-year-old Bobby Franks.

He learned his fate from a news bulletin he heard on a radio in the prison hospital at Joliet, Ill., where he works.

Leopold could renew his parole application next month, said Robert Phillips, board secretary. But the hearing petition would have to be based on the same set of facts—that he was a good prisoner, that he willfully permitted himself to be inoculated with malaria to test a new drug now used by U.S. troops in Korea.

AN AGE OF GREATNESS

Shakespeare was 52 when he died. Out-living the Queen by 13 years, he had caused her name to live on with him.
With him, in a sense, there really died the Elizabethan Age. He was buried in a grave 17 feet deep. Above it was his own inscription, written for the benefit of the sextons whom he feared might one day disinter him, committing his remains to "the bone house" to make room for

Peronistas Expel 21, Suspend 28 Others

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The Peronista party announced Thursday night that 21 members have been expelled and 28 suspended in Buenos Aires province. The party continued the general purging of its membership rolls started last April 10 when Col. Domingo Mercante, former governor of the province, and seven former congressmen were suspended. Mercante was alleged to have spread rumors against the government.

Sunshine Camp Open For Family Holidays

City dwellers who would like to take the family for a low cost week in the country will have the opportunity this year thanks to the Community Chest.

Glen Hamilton, counselor for the families' and children's service of the chest, announced today that a family camp will be held this year. He adds that charges will be on sliding scale to suit the income of the family. It will be held at the Sunshine Camp, previously available only to youngsters.

Mr. Hamilton explained that the idea grew as it became apparent that every worker gets at least a week of holiday with pay, but many cannot afford a vacation. The household expenses don't stop for that week and there is little available for transportation or resort charges.

MOST WAGE-EARNERS

"This doesn't just apply to the so-called 'poor people,'" he said. "The same is true of many B.C. wage-earners. Thanks to advanced labor legislation every B.C. worker gets a vacation. But how is he to enjoy it without going into debt? Few have savings they can splurge on a holiday."

Sunshine camp will be the answer for many Victoria families.

Located on the ocean near Sooke, the camp has individual cabins suited to groups of four to six.

There are attractive rowing boats and mattresses in most cabins and a community kitchen. The campers have to take nothing but themselves.

A staff of camp counselors supervise swimming, hiking, arts and crafts, games, etc. There is also a trained nurse in attendance.

SERVICE CLUBS AID

Most of the cabins have been maintained by city service clubs and the project has the backing of the community chest.

The first camp will be for mothers and children not over 12. It will last from June 23 to July 3. From July 23 to August 2, the camp will be open to boys of 12 and under and from August 15 to 25 for girls of the same age. There will be another "mothers' camp" from August 5 to 15.

The camp for the whole family will be held from August 25 to September 1. There will be special camps at dates to be announced for old age pensioners and for the blind.

Information on the Sunshine Camp may be obtained by phoning Mr. Hamilton at B5121.

CORONATION SERVICE

WORTHING, Eng. (CP)—Nearly 5,000 children will be taken to the football field in this Sussex community June 4 for an open-air Coronation service and hymn-singing. Alderman J. A. Mason said it should be "something to remember as long as we live."

MPs Told of Smoke Price War in B.C.

OTTAWA (AP)—Howard Green (PC, Vancouver-Quadra) said Thursday in the Commons the "little fellow" cannot compete with depressed cigarette prices offered by some chain stores. The small merchants depended on the cigarette trade and were being "run out of business" by the chains.

In Vancouver, Mr. Green said, around 2,000 persons were affected by this practice. He suggested that legislation be passed at this session to protect them.

Justice Minister Garson said in reply that the situation described by Mr. Green has been investigated and there appears to be no foundation for a charge of "loss-leader" selling.

Chain stores buy cigarettes from the manufacturer at the same prices as others. The lower retail price in the chain store results from the chain-store wholesaler taking a smaller wholesale mark-up and the chain outlet itself taking a smaller retail mark-up.

He said he questioned whether the consumer would want to see this practice made an offence against the law. The consumer benefited from what was in effect a cheaper method of distribution.

Woman Refuses Son Permission to Drive Car, Shot to Death

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—A woman who refused to allow her son to drive was shot and killed Thursday and her weeping son was arrested after he said: "I wanted to learn to drive, but she wouldn't let me."

Dead from two .22 calibre rifle shots in the back of her head was Mrs. Ruth Dove, 40. Her son by a previous marriage, Barkley Bracey, 18, was held in the county jail and booked for murder.

India and Pakistan combined have about 225 languages, exclusive of dialects.

SAYS OAK BAY TORY—

Reports on SC Meetings Fair

Newspaper reports of Social Credit meetings in Oak Bay and Saanich were "factual and fair," Frank Partridge, Oak Bay Tory, said today.

He was replying to Premier Bennett's charges in Salmon Arm that "the press of B.C." is slanting news stories against Social Credit. The Premier also said Mr. Partridge had been "planted at Oak Bay and Saanich meetings to try and embarrass us."

"Bennett's outburst of objection to any legitimate question or criticism is indicative of the Social attitude, Mr. Partridge said. "Aberhart's Alberta 'press gag act' was thrown out by the Privy Council, in 1938, along with other control legislation quite contrary to the BNA Act. It would seem Mr. Bennett is trying to follow the same road."

Mr. Partridge said he was not the only one asking questions at the local meetings. "I have attended three Social Credit meetings of my own free will," he said. "Nobody tells me what to do or say. I simply cannot go along with Social monetary theories."

He said Social candidates should stand up squarely and "stop pussyfooting" and tell the people where they stand on monetary beliefs.

Mr. Partridge said Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin was responsible for the "up-roar" Premier Bennett talked about at the Saanich meeting.

Boys' Bodies Found

Brothers Recovered From Lake Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Missing since May 1, three Toronto boys were found drowned today on the Toronto waterfront.

A crew of waterfront workers saw the bodies of the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Quigley floating in the water at the foot of Sherbourne Street.

Police said it was a case of accidental drowning. Coroner Smirle Lawson said the children had been in the water 12 to 14 days. They left their east-central home here to buy candy at a neighborhood store on May 1.

Police theorized that one child fell off a steel girder while trying to cross a part of the harbor and the others were drowned trying to rescue him.

The boys, Howard, 10, Henry, 7, and Paul, 5, had been the object of one of the most intensive hunts in Toronto's history.

An army of police and interested citizens had combed the downtown area and other parts of the city. Just Thursday the board of police commissioners doubled a reward from $500 to $1,000 for information leading to their discovery, dead or alive.

Dulles Seeks New Plan for Egypt Crisis

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—Well-informed Egyptian circles here said today John Foster Dulles, United States state secretary, had told the Egyptian government he was trying to produce a plan within a month to solve the Anglo-Egyptian dispute over the Suez Canal.

Dulles visited Cairo this week on his fact-finding tour of the Middle East.

He was said to have told Gen. Naguib, the Egyptian prime minister, he might be able to recommend a settlement plan acceptable to Egypt and Britain.

There was no information here to indicate what Dulles had in mind.

CAIRO (CP)—Egyptians in towns in the Suez Canal zone have been ordered not to sell food to British troops, the government said today.

It denied, however, that it was making any move to cut off normal supplies to the British garrison.

A spokesman for the revolutionary council said the garrison would continue to receive its foodstuffs under allocated quotas from authorized contractors. British forces, however, would not be allowed in future to buy in the towns foodstuffs allocated to the civilian population of the canal zone.

IWA Dispute To Go to 3-Man Board

VANCOUVER, B.C. (BUP)—The CIO International Woodworkers Union called in local representatives of 32,000 loggers today to plot "future action" following a second breakdown in wage negotiations with West Coast lumbermen.

The dispute now will go to a three-man arbitration board in a bid to avert British Columbia's second woodworkers' strike in as many years.

Stalemate in company-union talks came two days after Government Conciliator Robert Forgie brought the parties together.

Toronto Seeks Games

TORONTO (BUP)—The city of Toronto and the Canadian National Exhibition board to make a spirited bid for the 1960 summer Olympic Games, it was learned today following a meeting between city and CNE officials.

Golfers-Set for B.C. Amateur

Victoria ganged up on Vancouver today as the B.C. Amateur golf championship opened at the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club. Hugh Morrison, left, of Gorge Vale Club, and Bob Morrison, right, of Uplands Club take Vancouver's Bob Kidd to task before the 36-hole qualifying test. Kidd, runner-up to professional Stan Leonard in the recent Vancouver match-play championship, may have the last laugh, however, as he is one of the favorites for the title. The tourney continues through to Monday. (Times Photo by Halkett.)

BIG TWO PARLEY U.S. SUGGESTION

Churchill-Eisenhower Conference Needed To End Rift Says Senior Senate Member

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill has intimated that he will not press for any immediate top-level talks with Soviet leaders and has promised he will make no attempt to "appease" them, authoritative sources said today.

Churchill gave his assurance, informants said, in a conference with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. H. Alexander Smith appealed today for an early "Big Two" conference between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Winston Churchill to close the U.S.-British rift over Korean war policy.

The New Jersey Republican, a senior member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said the two leaders should get together either in Washington or London as soon as possible to "establish a common Anglo-American position in Asia, just as we have done in western Europe."

He told a reporter the "most pressing single issue" was the threatened out at a big two-meeting "is our justified concern that Britain will back Communism."

Under front-page headlines reading "No Apology, Mr. McCarthy," the answer to the American Hullahaloo, the pro-Labor Daily Herald defended Attlee's critical speech in Commons last Tuesday.

"Senator McCarthy has behaved like Senator McCarthy," the Mirror said. "We do not dignify this twaddle by calling it an insult. It is just damn stupid. We waste no more breath on McCarthy."

The Mirror said McCarthy would get no apology.

"Britain is not apologizing to him or anybody else in America because there has been plain speaking," the Mirror said. "We think it is long overdue."

The Daily Herald, semi-official Labor party organ, attacked McCarthy as "the sinister senator" in a front-page editorial.

"For several years the sinister senator has campaigned against freedom of speech and ideas with mounting ferocity... but now, we should dare hope, we have had the last straw. Because Mr. Attlee dared in the British parliament to criticize a minority of American opinion—and to mention without proper reverence the sacred name of McCarthy himself—the Senator instantly denounces Attlee as a communist."

The Conservative press declined to comment editorially, but each paper displayed it as its leading story.

Smith deplored the "exchange of epithets at trans-Atlantic range" which has strained U.S.-British relations during the past week, and said the situation has deteriorated to the point where dramatic moves, such as an Eisenhower-Churchill meeting, are needed to save the day.

NEW YORK (AP)—The news-paper with the world's largest daily circulation today called Sen. Joseph McCarthy "damned stupid" for demanding an apology from former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

The Conservative press declined to comment editorially, but each paper displayed it as its leading story.

Smith deplored the "exchange of epithets at trans-Atlantic range" which has strained U.S.-British relations during the past week, and said the situation has deteriorated to the point where dramatic moves, such as an Eisenhower-Churchill meeting, are needed to save the day.

TITLE BOUT TO BE AIRED ON TV TONIGHT

CHICAGO (AP)—Champion Rocky Marciano weighed 184½ pounds and challenger Jersey Joe Walcott 197½ at noon weigh-in for their 15-round heavyweight title bout at Chicago Stadium tonight.

Marciano was outweighted, 196 to 184, when he dethroned Walcott with a 13th-round knockout at Philadelphia last Sept. 23.

Tape of the fight for Rocky Marciano-Jersey Walcott in their 15-round title match tonight at Chicago Stadium.

Whether their attendance will result in any new charges against the Avon Company was not definite today.

The chief planned to discuss the play with Avon Company officials later in the day.

Inspector Peris Atkinson, Detective Dean Blackstock and Detective Sergeant Bill Andrews saw the play with the chief.

The chief's only comment was that he did not "altogether agree" with a morning paper's review suggesting the play was tame.

The Vancouver performance of the play was ruled obscene by the Appeal Court of B.C. (See Audrey Johnson's review Page 3.)

India Backs Prisoner Plan Offered by Reds

NEW DELHI (UP)—India, one of the five nations accepted as a "neutral" in the Korean truce negotiations, declared today that the latest Allied plan for prisoner repatriation should be junked in favor of the eight-point Communist plan.

Premier Jawaharlal Nehru told parliament that the Communist plan is closely similar to the Indian plan adopted by the United Nations General Assembly last year by a vote of 54-5 over Soviet opposition, and declared that it "should form the basis of discussion."

He said the latest Allied proposals mark a considerable departure from the Indian plan, which called for the creation of a four-nation neutral commission to handle the exchange of prisoners and proposed that the fate of men unwilling to return home be left to a post-war political conference.

The Communist plan is generally similar, except that it calls for a five-nation repatriation commission.

In a statement on foreign policy, the Indian premier also endorsed Prime Minister Winston Churchill's call for a big power conference and said that Russia's latest "peace" overtures "must be welcomed as helping to lessen tension in the world."

Spectators' galleries in parliament were crowded as Nehru took the floor to outline his government's view on foreign affairs. The "distinguished visitors' gallery" was jammed with diplomats, including the U.S. ambassador and the British and Canadian high commissioners.

In his comment on Korea, the Premier said Communist proposals are "much more likely" to produce agreement on the prisoner issue than the allied counter proposals rejected yesterday by the Reds.

Today's hour and 20-minute session brought only restatement that neither side accepts the other's views on what to do with 48,500 Red prisoners who refuse to go back to Communism.

Another meeting is scheduled for Saturday.

PROMISED CHANGES IMPLEMENTED

BCHIS Premium Arrears Abolished

BCE BUS STRIKE OFF; COMPROMISE ON WAGES

VANCOUVER—The British Columbia Electric and nearly 3,000 transit operators in Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria settled their wage dispute today and averted a strike, in the three cities.

The AFL Street-Railwaymen's Union originally demanded a 23-cent hourly pay boost, but took an undisclosed cut in the final negotiations. The union had said earlier, however, that it would settle for 10 cents an hour.

The strike threat first loomed large when the union rejected a conciliation board award of a six-cent boost.

Straw Vote Charge Laid

CCF Candidate Robert Strachan Maintains He'll Uphold B.C. Laws

A formal charge of "unlawfully conducting a straw vote" has been laid against Watts Marketing Research of Vancouver by Cowichan-Newcastle CCF candidate Robert Strachan.

The charge was laid before Magistrate A. C. Sutton at Duncan Thursday afternoon. Named in the information is William Watts, managing director of the firm accused of taking the vote in the riding.

The case will be heard before Magistrate Sutton, May 22, at 10.30 a.m.

"If Attorney-General Bonner won't uphold the law, I'll see what I can do," stated Mr. Strachan.

LETTER OF LAW
The charge was laid under Section 168 of the Elections Act which says: "No person, corporation, or organization shall, after the issue of the writ for any election, take any straw vote which will, prior to the election, distinguish the political opinions of the voters in any electoral district."

CCF headquarters first announced the B.C. Social Credit League was conducting the vote, but this was denied by Premier Bennett and Mr. Bonner.

Mr. Watts said in Vancouver Thursday the political survey was "not ordered by the Social Credit party or any other political party."

He said the "political attitude survey" was not intended for public release and did not ask people how they would vote or who they planned to support.

He explained that spot checks on current opinion are being made constantly in "our continuing kind of research work."

"While it is our understanding that we are wholly within our legal rights, the form of the questionnaire in this instance will be submitted to the attorney-general's office for opinion."

"If it is not considered permissible to make a survey of that kind at this time, naturally we will not proceed," said Mr. Watts.

Two Flying Boxcars, Jet Plane Crash

HEMSBACH, Germany (UP)—Three United States air force planes crashed in flames near here today.

The U.S. 12th Airforce headquarters at Landstuhl said two C-119 "flying boxcars" and a U.S. jet plane were involved.

It was not known immediately how many persons were involved in the triple crash.

First reports gave no indication of the cause of the air disaster.

German police said a number of ambulances rushed to the scene of the crashes.

The C-119 is a twin-engine military transport plane.

Mother, Father Dead, Children Crying in Crib
LONE BUTTE, B.C. (CP)—Two tiny children were found whimpering in their crib Thursday in a one-room cabin, alone with the body of their mother. The body of their father was found hanging from a tree outside.

RCMP said it was a case of murder and suicide.

Martin Announces 3-Point 'Encouragement' Scheme

By GORDON FORBES
Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin today announced his promised changes in B.C.'s hospital insurance scheme with a three-fold plan to encourage the payment of premiums.

Here are the main points of the plan which goes into effect July 1:

1. The government has abolished all arrears of premium payments, including those for people on payroll deductions.

2. People on payroll will now be able to get insurance after paying one month's premium instead of six months as previously.

3. Each six months of premiums paid will bring an "insured benefit" for one month, up to a maximum of three months. This means that if a person, for some reason, could not continue paying premiums after he had paid for 18 months, he would still be insured for three months before being struck off the benefit list.

At present all people are prepaid six months under the insurance scheme.

Those who pay directly to BCHIS have to pay at least six months' premium in advance, and those on payroll deduction have six months' advance premium taken off their pay.

The six months' premium for those who pay direct remains in force, but for employees only one month need be paid in advance, starting July.

There will be no refunds for employees who are already paid up six months ahead. They will be credited with this if at any future time they run into financial difficulties and cannot pay premiums.

In wiping out all existing arrears the government is completing a process which began early last year when it became apparent that people who had never paid hospital insurance kept evading the plan because they faced back payments to match those paid by people who had been in the scheme from the start.

Thus, at any time, a person can start BCHIS with a clean sheet regardless of whether he has paid before or not.

The only drawback is that if he hasn't paid premiums for the previous six months he has to wait one month before getting hospital benefits.

Where he slips up in one premium payment he'll have to wait 14 days before getting hospital benefits. But if he has a regular record of payment, he'll have built up an "insurance benefit" to cover him in accordance with the new formula.

Perfect Weather For Everest Try By British Group
NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Britain's Everest expedition will have perfect climbing weather for the beginning of its assault on the world's highest mountain, the All-India radio broadcast said today.

It forecast overcast skies and occasional snow flurries, winds reaching about 45 miles an hour at the top of Mount Everest, and high altitude temperatures at between two and six degrees below zero. The monsoon, which invariably ends such expeditions, should break early in June, it added.

The British climbers and their guides are scheduled to begin their ascent today. The Indian radio beamed its broadcast specially for their benefit.

Early Federal Election Hint As Commons Winds Up Session

OTTAWA (CP)—The 21st Parliament has ended its work and a general election is in the offing.

The election seems set for August. The speech from the throne at the prorogation of Parliament early today added weight to the idea of an early election.

Speculation has centred on an August election date, either August 10 or August 17.

There was nothing either to confirm or deny these dates in the idea that it was directed toward the close of the session, but there was considerable election fodder in the speech.

It stated definitely—for the first time—that this has been the last session of the current Parliament. Also, it gave a review of Liberal government accomplishments over the last four years.

The heavy emphasis on the government's moves appeared to lend some emphasis to the idea that it was directed toward the voters as well as to members of the Senate and House of Commons.

MONTREAL (CP)—Part of

Decontrol of Milk Prices in Force Within 3 Weeks

VANCOUVER (CP)—Decontrol of milk prices above the producer level will be put into effect during the next three weeks, Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan announced.

Mr. Kiernan said he expected the necessary order-in-council will be passed by the government before Monday.

Actual decontrol—under which only the producer price would be fixed—will not come into effect until two weeks following the order-in-council, the minister said.
